$10.2 Million Contract to IBM Plant Here

By LYNN MULVANEY

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The awarding of a $10.2 million contract to Kingston's IBM plant has been announced today by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., who expressed great pleasure with the windfall to the economy of the 25th Congressional District.

Rep. Fish said the contract for $10,260,000 was awarded by the Federal Aviation Administration for two computer systems to be purchased by Great Britain for use in its airport traffic control center.

Great Britain has only one such center while the United States has 20 in which the sophisticated automated system is being installed. Presently the United States has the computer systems in nine of the 20 centers, according to FAA.

Contacted today, IBM officials acknowledged the contract but declined to comment, preferring that information come from the FAA.

The contract specifically calls for one each of an IBM 90-20D Triplex and 90-20 Simplex Central Computer Complex System.

The equipment is designed to automate the air route traffic system. "It is the guts, the central part of the system," an FAA official said. FAA plans to automate the whole air traffic control system in the United States.

Special

Its part in the present contract is that of a middleman who is arranging the sale of the IBM equipment to Great Britain, for which it will be reimbursed.

FAA itself has an ongoing contract with IBM for the complex systems.

No completion or delivery date for the new contract has been determined.

Congressman Fish, commenting on the awarding of the contract, termed it "great, wonderful that we are getting this type of money, this type of contract into the 25th Congressional District and in particular, Ulster County."

He said that "hopefully, it will put to rest some of the fears expressed by Congressman Fish's constituency following the recent announcement that the Justice Department was taking some action against IBM in an effort to break up what it termed a monopoly."

Congressman Fish called the contract "very valuable to the district" especially in view of employment problems around the country.

Two years ago, Congressman Fish announced an $82.4 million contract award for Kingston IBM and a $64.6 million contract for the company's Poughkeepsie plant. The contracts were with the General Services Administration for the rental and maintenance of automatic data processing systems and equipment.

As when each of the contracts were awarded, Congressman Fish, noted today that IBM is one of the biggest employers in the Hudson Valley and is so vital to the economy of the area.

Brooklyn Man Charged With Arson

Yallum's Store Is Guttled

A Brooklyn man has been arrested by Kingston police and charged with fourth degree arson after allegedly starting a fire that destroyed Yallum's clothing store early today.

The fourth degree arson charge, which involves recklessly damaging a building by intentionally starting a fire, was lodged against John H. Phillips, 30, of 526 Chauncey Street, Brooklyn. Phillips was apprehended about 6:30 a.m. as he walked along Route 587 between Albany Avenue and the thruway traffic circle. He was taken to police headquarters for questioning, where he allegedly admitted starting a fire at the so well known store, 317 Wall Street, shortly before 4 a.m.

Phillips was arraigned today before City Court Judge Hubert A. Richter. No bail was set. Phillips waived preliminary examination and was committed to the Ulster County Jail pending action by the Ulster County Grand Jury.

Phillips reportedly told police he had removed an oil smudge pot from a nearby street barricade to use in breaking a window of the store. After breaking the window he entered the store in an attempt to get some clothing but panicked and ran when he saw flames shoot up from the interior of the store where the smudge pot landed, he told police.

The first alarm went out at 3:57 a.m. Fire Chief Robert Maines said the three story brick clothing store was heavily engulfed in flames when firemen arrived and ordered a second alarm, bringing all 12 pieces of Kingston fire apparatus to the scene.

Maines said that firemen were handicapped because the roof of the store caved in, blocking them in their efforts to put water on the flames on the first and second floors. The building was totally destroyed and a large crane was sent to the scene today to pull down wreckage that threatened to collapse into the street.

Maines said that the F. W. Woolworth store at 315 Wall Street and a store at 319 Wall Street being prepared for opening in about 10 days by Stanley London was heavily damaged by water. The basement of the Woolworth building was cracked, apparently from the heat of the fire next door, Maines said.

London said today that the building at 319 Wall Street would be opened as soon as possible as the London's Square, selling men's and women's clothing and accessories. He said that there was about $30,000 to $40,000 worth of merchandise in the store and that it had been heavily damaged by water and smoke.

Firemen and police roped off Wall Street and directed traffic around the scene as fire equipment moved into position to battle the blaze. Rope barriers were erected about 100 yards on either side of the fire to keep spectators out of range of falling debris from the building on the west side of Wall Street. Traffic was still being rerouted this afternoon as firemen stood by while the crane removed wreckage from the top of the Yallum building. The fire, smothered by debris earlier, flared up again as the crane removed wrecked portions of the roof, but Chief Maines said it was well under control.

Focus on Beck's as Rehab Center

(Editor's Note: The proposal to establish a storefront narcotics treatment-education center at the Beck's Building on Broadway has been a controversial issue for the past three months. For the most part, those officials involved in the project have been hesitant to issue public statements on it. Tuesday, Mayor Francis R. Koenig called a meeting of the principals involved, in his office. The Freeman asked and was granted permission to sit in on that meeting.)

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

In a limited sense, the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association, which opposes the establishment of a storefront narcotics center in the Beck's Building on Broadway, emerged "victorious" from Tuesday's meeting in Mayor Koenig's office.

It was agreed that Len Cane, executive director of the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce would take back the message to the chamber's Total Community Development Committee that the consensus of opinion was the Beck property should not be used for a storefront operation and that instead some other site should be found.

The TCD Committee will meet on Nov. 9 followed by a special meeting of the Chamber's Board of Directors. If they agree to abandon the Beck proposal, in all likelihood, the building will be demolished to make way for a parking lot, something the businessmen have been seeking for more than a year.

Attending Tuesday's meeting were Koenig, Cane, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward, chairman of a special Common Council Committee on Central Broadway, John M. Rapp, chairman of a special Central Businessmen's Committee on Central Broadway; Dr. Elmer McKay, chairman of the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council; Edward Arace, president and Joseph Murphy and Anthony Saccamano, members of the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association; David Ryland, vice president and Clifford Henze, president of the Chamber of Commerce and City Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein.

This same group met with Koenig on Oct. 13, but found themselves deadlocked between the businessmen's opposition to the storefront center at Beck's and the Chamber's desire (along with McKay) to establish it. Plans had called for The Friends of Renaissance, a non-profit organization, to purchase the building and rent it to the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council.

And there was very little the city or the businessmen could have done to prevent it, if Friends of Renaissance (through the Chamber) had decided to pursue the venture. Renaissance had an option on the property. In fact, Koenig asked Klein, yesterday, if the city could stop the project. Klein answered that the city could institute condemnation proceedings on the grounds that the parking lot was needed for the "public good" but that "there would be no assurance of success in that action . . . it could well meet with failure."

But yesterday's meeting was different from the first one in that Arace and Rapp brought with them petitions signed by some 60 businessmen on Central Broadway opposed to a narcotics treatment center at the Beck's building. Responding to Klein's statement on the city stopping the project, Henze said, "We're not about to create the situation where the city has to do that. Give us some direction. We're concerning ourselves with a human problem, not a physical one. You make the choice."

Later, after Henze had left for another appointment, the subject came up again. Ryland, speaking for Henze said, "I'm not telling you anything that Mr. Henze hasn't told you before. Mr. Henze has said he would not fly in the face of public opinion."

Whether or not the Chamber will abandon its plans for the Beck's property remains to be seen although one got the impression that city officials and the Central Broadway Businessmen felt they had cleared that hurdle.

As indicated by Cane, it would be a difficult decision for those parties who had been working for the better part of six months on the project. "TCD met on the 25th (of October) and reaffirmed its decision (to carry out the project) and the Chamber Board met that night and also reaffirmed its decision," Cane said. "If we had another place to go, it might be easier. But right now, we don't. It's going to be very difficult."

Rapp and Arice had taken the position previously that the Chamber, by sponsoring the storefront, was actually working against business in the Central Broadway area. "The Chamber is not in the business of being harmful to business," Cane said in response to that. What we did here was become involved in a human problem. Sixty to 80 per cent of minor crimes are the result of drugs. In a very real sense it would help the business sector. What we're concerned about is that if nobody wants it in Central Broadway just where the hell does the storefront go. It's the same attitude all over town."

McKay verified that, stating that up until the time Henze and the Kingston Area Financial Council and the Chamber got involved this past April, he had spent eight months seeking a storefront center in the city and was told time and again, "We sympathize with what you're trying to do but we don't want it in our neighborhood."

N. Viets in Two-Fold Attack On Thieu, Nixon Administration

By United Press International

North Vietnam said today that any attempt by the United States to alter the text of the Vietnam peace accord will end the chances of a cease-fire. It attacked President Nguyen Van Thieu as an enemy of peace and sharply criticized the Nixon administration for delaying the signing.

The White House was still awaiting a signal from Hanoi to dispatch Henry A. Kissinger back to Paris—or elsewhere—for a final round of negotiations on a cease-fire agreement believed stalled for the moment on Thieu's demands North Vietnamese army troops be withdrawn from South Vietnam.

Kissinger said only that there were six or seven points to be discussed in the draft agreement. And in Peking, Premier Chou En-lai said he believes the United States is "to a certain extent" responsible for Thieu's reluctance to agree to the cease-fire. At the same time the official People's Daily, the organ of the Chinese Communist party, denounced the United States for the delay.

There was further mild criticism from the Soviet Union. Tass said the Soviet Vietnamese Friendship Committee "resolutely denounces" the action of the United States for continuing the war while talking peace.

Weekend peace negotiations predicted by Paris newspaper and champagne bottles chilled and ready for signing of treaty. Stories on page 40.

Thieu was holding his ground. He vowed today in Saigon he would never accept a peace treaty that "offers South Vietnam on a plate to the Communists" and said if the cease-fire had been signed Tuesday as demanded by the Communists the Communists would have taken over Saigon within 24 hours.

Hanoi said that it had been promised Saigon would occur in the peace pact worked out since Oct. 8 in Paris and announced last week by the North Vietnamese.

Thieu, in a series of appearances today in Saigon, have said that Thieu objects to dismissed charges that he is an obstacle to a peace agreement. He offered to talk directly with the Viet Cong in an effort to come to a settlement, an offer south and to the "National Council of National Reconciliation foreign minister Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh on Tuesday, president views as a coalition.

The back-and-forth broadsides between Thieu and the Communists appeared to dim, at least temporarily, the chance for a quick signing of the peace accord, diplomatic observers said in Saigon.

South Vietnamese officials have said that Thieu objects to seven provisions in the treaty as it is now written. His major opposition is to North Vietnamese troops remaining in the country and to the "National Council of National Reconciliation and Concord," which the Communists

22 Americans Are Killed

SAIGON (AP) — A big U. S. helicopter crashed in a flooded rice field in the Mekong Delta southwest of Saigon Tuesday, killing all 22 Americans aboard, field reports said today.

The U.S. command said nine bodies had been recovered by dusk. Officers in the field said they believed the helicopter — a CH-47 Chinook — was shot down. One report said it was believed to have been hit by a heat-seeking Soviet Strela missile, a portable infantryman's weapon.

The U.S. Command said the cause of the crash had not been determined and an investigation was under way. Field reports said all or most of those aboard were believed to be military personnel. Some officials said there may have been a few civilian employees of the military aboard.

Spokesmen said the helicopter was on a courier run from Saigon to Can Tho, in the delta, and crashed west of My Tho, about 35 miles southwest of Saigon.

The area of the crash has been the scene of heavy fighting between South Vietnamese and Communist forces in recent weeks. U. S. officers said South Vietnamese troops were providing ground security for the recovery operation.

The crash was the worst American air loss since last May 20, when 32 American soldiers were killed in another Army Chinook 20 miles north-east of Saigon.

North Vietnam Tuesday with the same objective.

More than 60 of the Stratofortresses dropped 1,500 tons of bombs today along the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos and on base camps in eastern Cambodia.

The B52 effort in Cambodia and Laos cut the number of strikes in South Vietnam to about 40, the lowest since the first stages of the North Vietnamese offensive last April. For the first time in several weeks, there were no B52 strikes in the Saigon region.

Informants said both North Vietnam and the United States are trying to stockpile as much war material as they can before a cease-fire. While North Vietnam is trying to push up and plies south down the Ho Chi Minh Trail and store them in eastern Cambodia, the United States has launched a crash program to furnish South Vietnam all the military equipment it can before a peace agreement curtails American military aid, sources said.

A number of helicopters and transport planes previously scheduled for return to the United States have been given to the South Vietnamese Air Force, and big cargo planes from the United States have stepped up their delivery of armored personnel carriers in the past week, the sources said.

The Saigon command reported more than 100 Communist attacks in South Vietnam for the seventh successive day, with several clashes in the Saigon region.

One hard fight was reported along Highway 1, about 16 miles northwest of Saigon, and the Saigon command claimed 50 enemy were killed and 10 weapons were captured. It reported no government casualties.

Paltz Pedestrian Killed

TOWN OF NEW PALTZ
John M. Margot, 76, of 270 Route 32 South, Town of New Paltz, was killed Tuesday night when struck by a car as he walked near his home.

The driver, Thomas Levin, 39, of 444 South Ohioville Road, Town of New Paltz, told New Paltz Town Patrolmen D. J. Zappone and E. F. Melendez that he was driving south near Jansen Road, when he was partially blinded by the headlights of an approaching car and failed to see the pedestrian. He attempted to swerve to the left to miss Margot, who also reportedly moved in that direction into the path of Levin's car. Levin then tried to stop in time to avoid an accident but was unsuccessful, he told police. It was the 49th traffic fatality of the year in Ulster County.

Margot was pronounced dead at the scene by police physician Herbert Weinman of New Paltz. The body was removed to the Ulster County Morgue for an autopsy. No charges were filed against Levin.

A Kingston man who suffered a broken neck when his car ran off Emerson Street Monday was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital.

Kingston police said Chester H. Waterman, 74, of RD 4, Box 189, Kingston, was driving south when his car ran off the road and struck a tree in front of 121 Emerson Street with the left front of the vehicle.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser issued an official verdict of accidental death due to a fractured cervical vertebra. Teresa Sink, 12, of Slate Hill, was injured fatally Tuesday when a car driven by her older sister crashed into a tree in the Town of Wawayanda near Middletown. Her sister, Sandra, 18, was admitted to Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown with a broken jaw.

Town Assessor Case... Five Charges Dismissed

By JON POWERS

SAUGERTIES
Five of the charges leveled against the Town of Saugerties assessor and his two assistants by the Concerned Taxpayers Association have been dismissed by a State Supreme Court Justice.

In a ruling dated Oct. 26, and released to the two parties Tuesday, Justice Franklin A. Mahoney dismissed the five charges because "none... has any merit."

But G. Thomas Rea, attorney for the taxpayers group, emphasized today that the two major issues—alleged "over-evaluation" and "inequality" in assessment procedures—are still pending before the court.

The five charges were included in a lawsuit filed by the taxpayers association against assessment proceedings in the Town of Saugerties. The taxpayers group charged that the assessments were "unfair" and "discriminatory."

The five charges included: That the completed tax roll was not timely filed with the Town Clerk; that the respondent (assessor Paul Pavlovich) did not conduct on-site physical inspection of each parcel; that the assessor does not meet the qualifications set forth in Section 1522 of the Real Property Tax Law; that the method employed by the respondent constituted "spot-assessing;" and that respondents did not give adequate notice to the petitioning taxpayers of the results of their annual reassessments.

Pavlovich, and his two assistants, Michael Caruso and John Bartells, who were represented in court by Saugerties Town Attorney Richard Overbaugh, asked that the charges be dismissed.

"The Court is constrained to grant the relief sought by the respondent (Assessor) because it is of the view that none of the five aforescribed allegations of illegality has any merit," Justice Mahoney ruled.

Pavlovich said today that he is "extremely pleased" with the court's ruling, and expressed confidence that the issues still before the court will be resolved favorably. He said that "independent appraisals" would prove that his office "was both fair and reasonable in valuations for the parcels in question."

Despite the initial setback, Rea said today, "We're where we want to be: in court." He added that Judge Mahoney, in effect, upheld the allegations of over-evaluation and "inequality" because he refused to dismiss them. Those issues are to be decided by a Supreme Court Trial Justice in a non-jury hearing.

"We don't intend to appeal this decision," said Rea. "The two most important issues are still pending. They're the ones we want." Rea added, "It's time this matter was brought before the public. We have a right to a trial."

The lawsuit was first filed Oct. 6. No date has been set for a hearing on the two remaining allegations.

Senior Citizens — — living on a fixed income are particularly vulnerable as the value of the dollar shrinks.

Because Clark Bell understands senior citizens' problems, he successfully sponsored legislation that became law — which allows municipalities to raise from $5,000 to $6,000 — the amount of income a homeowner over 65 can earn while still qualifying for a 50% real property tax exemption.

Just another example of his interest and support of the Senior Citizens in this area.

McGovern Blasts Administration at Syracuse Rally

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Flanked by the mayors of nine upstate New York cities, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern, accused the Nixon administration Tuesday of shortchanging domestic needs in favor of "fat" and "foolishness" in the defense budget.

McGovern made the assertion during a rally in downtown Syracuse, probably his last campaign appearance upstate before the election, six days away.

He spoke from the steps of the Onondaga County Courthouse to a crowd estimated by various police sources at from 8,000 to 16,000, the majority of them college age. Cheers and chants of "We Want George" punctuated McGovern's 35-minute speech. For a time, midway through his address, he had to compete with loud chimes from the Immaculate Conception Cathedral across the street. "I always thought God was with us in this campaign," he smiled.

McGovern was joined on the campaign trail for the first time in two weeks by his wife Eleanor, who had been hospitalized for exhaustion. Tuesday was their 29th wedding anniversary.

"I never figured out why we picked Halloween (to be married), but it has been a treat ever since," he said.

McGovern ridiculed several defense programs as wasteful "boondoggies." "fat" and "foolishness" and said such spending was depriving the nation's citizens and cities of badly needed social and health programs.

Polls released this week continued to indicate McGovern is far behind Republican President Nixon in voter sentiment, but he said he was "more committed than ever" that "the people are not going to be dictated to by the polls or anything else" on Election Day.

Later, in a television interview, McGovern said he knew of several instances of persons reluctant to take part in polling surveys because they feared they were being subjected to covert Federal Bureau of Investigation probes of their backgrounds and attitudes.

In another interview, McGovern had trouble recognizing the name of U.S. Rep. James M. Hanley, a Syracuse Democrat who is engaged in a close re-election battle in a mainly Republican district. Newsman Bill McConnell of WNYX-TV, Syracuse, said he asked McGovern for reaction to Hanley's non-appearance at the rally, identifying Hanley as a Democratic Congressman.

"I don't even know who he is," McGovern replied. McConnell explained further that Hanley was seeking his fifth term and had cited a long-standing speaking engagement as the reason for his absence.

McGovern said he still could not place the name, then asked crowd "it would have been to Lee Alexander, a Democrat." The benefit of every Democrat running for office to be on hand also Democrats, on the platform were Frank A. Sedita of Buffalo, Alfred Del Bello of Yonkers, Erastus Corning II of Albany, Edward J. Conley of Ithaca, George W. Carnrike of Norwich, John Gomulka of Amsterdam, John Byrnes of Rochester.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY — An unidentified airline hostess presents a cake to George and Eleanor McGovern on their 29th wedding anniversary Tuesday aboard a plane enroute from Syracuse to Newark, N. J., "I predict the public opinion pollsters are going to be the most red-faced people in the country next Tuesday," McGovern told a crowd in Syracuse. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Nixon Plans Campaign Swing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will make a three-state campaign trip Friday aimed both at boosting his own re-election effort and swinging two Senate seats now held by Democrats into the Republican column.

The only item on Nixon's political schedule for today was a radio address on urban policy, one of five broadcast speeches scheduled for the final week of his bid for a second term.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced late Tuesday that Nixon would go to Chicago, Oklahoma, and Rhode Island Friday. He said the cities to be visited in Oklahoma and Rhode Island would be announced soon.

The Chicago stop will be built around a rally at O'Hare Airport. It was added to the schedule to replace a Tuesday trip which was canceled because of the Chicago railroad tragedy.

Ziegler said Nixon decided to go to Oklahoma and Rhode Island to spur the campaigns of Republican candidates for the Senate—former Gov. Dewey Bartlett in Oklahoma and former governor and Navy Secretary John Chafee in Rhode Island. Bartlett is seeking the seat being vacated by Democrat Fred Harris while Chafee is trying to oust Democratic incumbent Claiborne Pell.

The Oklahoma and Rhode Island Senate races are closely contested. Nixon will be joined in his Chicago appearance by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., but Percy is considered far ahead in his campaign for another six-year term.

Nixon and his wife, Pat, plan to fly to California Saturday for the rest of the campaign. They will appear at an airport rally in Ontario, Calif., Saturday and may make some additional stops on the way across the nation.

The flurry of travel on Friday and Saturday is all the personal campaigning Nixon plans this week, the last full week before the Nov. 7 election.

Nixon does plan to step up his use of television and radio time purchased by his campaign organization for political speeches.

In addition to today's radio address, the President is scheduled to speak on radio only Friday and Saturday and on both television and radio on Thursday and next Monday, on the eve of the election. It will mark Nixon's first use this year of purchased television time for political speeches.

The Nixons plan to vote in San Clemente, Calif. Tuesday, then return to Washington to await the returns.

Rocky Praises Four-Year Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York says he believes "history may well record that President Nixon has conducted the most successful four-year foreign policy of this century."

In a speech Tuesday at the National Press Club which he acknowledged was made at the administration's request, Rockefeller said:

"The success of the President's policies was dramatically attested to last Thursday when Henry Kissinger reported to the nation that peace is within our grasp..."

Rioters Mar GOP Fund Raiser

BOSTON (AP) — Several thousand antiwar demonstrators smashed windows, burned a car and clashed with riot-equipped police outside a Republican fund-raising dinner attended by Pat Nixon.

An estimated 6,000 persons attended the $25 per plate affair inside Commonwealth Armory Tuesday night, while police estimated that as many as 8,000 persons demonstrated outside.

The President's wife, in a brief speech, thanked those who attended the dinner and said her husband needed another four years in office to "make this great country what we all want it to be."

A man and a woman wearing campaign buttons of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern began shouting "stop international genocide" during her speech. They were led from the hall, but police said they were not arrested.

Demonstrators, many of whom marched about 1½ miles to the armory from Copley Square, staged a protest that lasted nearly four hours.

Significant for the future is the fact the President's over-all policy will give the United States an opportunity to settle future Vietnam without war," he added.

President Nixon has had the courage to reorient the international posture of the United States so this nation can cope with the realities of international politics."

Kissinger, Nixon's special assistant for national security affairs, was a guest at the luncheon head table, and Rockefeller was asked, following his abridged delivery of a 5,200-word prepared speech extolling the Nixon record in foreign affairs, whether he had been asked by the administration to appear.

"Yes, sir, and I accepted with pleasure," the governor said.

Three Ulster-Area Lawyers Join Hinchey Attack on Bell

By LYNN MULVANEY
KINGSTON
Three Ulster County lawyers have joined Democratic-Liberal Assembly candidate Maurice Hinchey Jr. in charging Republican-Conservative Assembly candidate H. Clark Bell with using his career as a lawyer-legislator as a vehicle for creating personal wealth.

Alex J. Nirenberg of Ellenville, Joshua Koplovitz of Woodstock and Louis Klein of Esopus stressed that the law is a tool for advancing social needs and that it should be used for the public benefit rather than as a vehicle for personal gain. Emphasizing the fact that many lawyers recognize this, they dramatized the fact at a press conference at Democratic Headquarters in Kingston Tuesday contending that an assemblyman who is not a lawyer can "nevertheless employ the law as it is intended to be used: as a means of helping people toward a better life, a decent and ordered life in a complex society."

Hinchey said that he and the progressive members of the legal fraternity in Ulster County are determined to take whatever steps they can to insure that the law is used to the benefit of people — for the citizens of Ulster County and not for special interests. Nirenberg suggested that the legal fraternity "has missed the boat in many ways and needs to help the people . . . It has a tendency to aid the fat cat and ignore the citizen," he said. Bell should recognize the needs of the people the little guys of Ulster County Nirenberg, continued. "I am not aware of his having done this," he said.

Koplovitz, was also present at the press conference and lent his support to Hinchey as did Klein who sent him a letter. In it he said in part, "Unquestionably, because of the apathetic attitude of your opponent nad his unwillingness to tarnish his 'golden boy' reputation with special interest groups by fighting for the man on the street, our county has become the oppressed child of New York State."

"First we experienced the reapportionment fiasco by which Ulster County was carved up into more pieces than any other county in New York State. Then we had the state come in and renege on promises to construct a new bridge over the Rondout Creek and" he asked, "what was Assemblyman Bell's reaction?" "He did nothing but repeat the words of the state officials and infer that they must be accepted. "These are only a few examples of Bell's public be-damned" attitude, Klein concluded.

Ellenville Projects... Controversy Continues

By WADE BURKHART
ELLENVILLE
Ellenville Chamber of Commerce President Richard Rothman said Tuesday that the site problems for the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development-sponsored housing project in Ellenville were "all squared away." However, members of the two village bodies, between which all the problems are, were not ready to go that far.

According to Rothman, both the Ellenville Village Board and the Ellenville Housing Authority have agreed to switch housing sites; the senior citizen 30-unit project to go on the Eaton Court site, the 40-unit low income project to go on the American Legion site with additional acquisition. Now, said Rothman, the Housing Authority has to go to the New York office of HUD to get the switch approved. One of the five firms that originally bid on the project has an option on the additional properties needed at the American Legion site to put the larger low income project on it. Rothman said this developer should be convinced to release his options to the other bidders so that all can bid on it.

However, Harold Lonstein, a member of the Housing Authority said the accord was not as complete as Rothman had pictured it. Lonstein said he was unsure if it would be legal to rebid the project if the developer would not give up his options to the other developers. He also pointed out the length of time it would take to resubmit the proposal to HUD and rebid it. Lonstein said it would be "starting from scratch" and could take a full year. He preferred to work out some arrangement with the present sites. The Housing Authority has sent a proposal calling for the

Rhinebeck Slated for Recreation

RHINEBECK
It appears that Rhinebeck residents may have recreation facilities at their disposal within a few years that have not existed since the turn of the century. The Citizens' Committee, composed of many prominent area residents, is investigating about five acres of land from the former Wells Estate on Rhinecliff Road, presently owned by Northern Dutchess Hospital. The plan is to expand the Starr Library, located on Montgomery Street since its inception in 1907, and perhaps add a recreation complex for use by town and village residents. The announcement of the preliminary choice of location was made by Mrs. C.K. Howe following an October meeting of the Citizens' Committee that is investigating such possibilities. Mrs. Howe is co-chairman with Mrs. Silas Frazer of the Committee. Once a property closing can be negotiated, plans for construction of facilities will begin, she noted. It is expected that both public and private funds will be used for the new facility, whatever shape it takes. Some other Committee members are Mayor Peter Shopshire, Supervisor William Allen, Justice Herman Tietjen, Michael Fichora, Charles LaForge, J. David Schmidt, Silas Frazer, Gardiner West, Mrs. Charles Rider, Donald Dapson, and Lawrence Hoyt. Another meeting is expected this week. During the years from 1907-1914 the Starr Institute Building housed a public reading room, a library, a lecture hall and gym, a cafeteria, bowling alley, card room, billiards room, and swimming pool.

Farm Was Bought With Hell's Angels Money

Three Bodies Pulled From Well

UKIAH, Calif. (UPI)—The bodies of three persons dead up to 18 months have been pulled from an abandoned well on a farm bought with Hell's Angels' money. Police searched for more bodies today on the theory it might be a burial ground for the motorcycle club.

A district attorney's investigator said an attempt was being made to determine if there was a link between the deaths and Ralph "Sonny"

Barger, 34, the Hell's Angels president who with three others is on trial in Oakland on murder charges. A high police source, who asked to remain unidentified, said the bodies—two men and a woman—were found Monday night. A 15-man force of Mendocino County deputies used mechanical equipment to continue the search Tuesday and would resume at dawn today.

The 153-acre farm was owned by an Oakland couple, George Wethern, 37, and his wife, Helen, 29. A high police source said Wethern was a member of the Hell's Angels and admitted buying the farm in behalf of Barger three years ago.

Wetherns Held
Ukiah Justice Court Judge Hale McCowen Jr. ordered the Wetherns held in bail of $200,000 each on a variety of narcotics charges after a search of their home seven miles southwest of Ukiah. Sheriff Reno Bartolome ordered a virtual news blackout on the investigation, but said suspects would be arrested on "probable cause."

Sources said authorities were tipped to the bodies by a cellmate of Barger's in Oakland. The informant, dying of throat cancer, said Barger "talked a lot and bragged a lot about people he killed."

California Attorney General Evelle Younger said police began digging for the bodies after an informant told them the farm was a burying ground for the Hell's Angels and after learning "several people were missing."

Our men went there to dig for what they understood to be bodies put there by the Hell's Angels," he told newsmen in Sacramento.

Four on Trial

The district attorney's investigator said a deputy district attorney has talked with Barger's lawyers. Barger and three other members of the motorcycle club are on trial on charges of "murdering a suspected narcotics dealer and trying to burn his body in a bathtub."

The two males found in the well Monday were not identified immediately. They had been in the well approximately 18 months. Both were believed to have been shot in the San Francisco Bay area, 100 miles south, placed in the trunk of a car and driven to the farm where they were dumped into the well.

The dead woman was believed to have died from an overdose of drugs. Public defender Robert C. Petersen of Mendocino County said he doubts if the Wethern farm was used as a burial ground for Hell's Angels.

There might be some connection with some people in the Hell's Angels but I don't think it's a burial ground," said Petersen. I think it probably was just a sporadic incident."

Shortage of Containers Delays Safety Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unexpected shortage of child-proof containers has prompted the Food and Drug Administration to quietly delay the deadline for safety packaging of aspirin, dangerous drugs and certain liniments.

The notice, published without public announcement in the Federal Register a week ago, gives the nation's 55,000 retail pharmacists until Jan. 22, 1973, to comply.

The original deadline, based on a two-year-old law, had been Aug. 14 for aspirin, Sept. 21 for methyl salicylate or wintergreen oil, and Oct. 24 for 4,300 types of such controlled drugs as amphetamines, barbiturates and narcotics.

FDA officials said a field survey under way indicates that the packaging-supply backlog may be even more extensive, and that the deadline might have to be extended also for manufacturers of bottled aspirin, the leading cause of child poisonings.

"We just learned of the shortage recently," said Henry L. Verhuist, director of the chemical-hazards division in the FDA's Bureau of Product Safety. "Packaging producers just have not kept up with the demand."

The delay now affects only retail druggists, and covers more than one billion prescriptions they fill annually.

Leonard "Clay" Sisk, an FDA pharmacist, said the shortage was compounded by pharmacists deciding to put all prescriptions in child-resistant containers.

The FDA itself aggravated the shortage in June when it urged drug companies "to voluntarily begin using special packaging for potentially hazardous over-the-counter drugs" rather than wait for government action.

The FDA's slow enforcement of the 1970 Poison Prevention Packaging Act, designed to cut down on the 500,000 accidental poisonings that kill up to 300 children each year, has drawn frequent criticism from Congress.

Dr. Sidney Wolfe, head of Ralph Nader's Health Research Group, said the latest delay demonstrates that FDA "again is placing economic feasibility for manufacturers above safety considerations."

A spokesman for Brockway Glass Co. at Brockway, Pa., said part of the rub is that FDA won't say whether it approves or disapproves of a safety design until after the closure has been marketed.

Packagers held off production as long as possible, he added, "because our customers were shopping for the best containers and the best price until the eleventh hour."

The most popular childproof closures are the snap variety, or the double cap requiring a push-and-turn motion, FDA said.

Truce Possible in School Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — The roundwork has been laid for a possible truce in hostilities sparked by the bitter Canarsie school dispute as 30 black and Puerto Rican children completed their third day of classes at Junior High School 211 under heavy police guard.

The school was virtually empty again Tuesday as white parents maintained an effective boycott there and at six elementary schools in the Brooklyn district. Roving groups of black and white youths clashed in the area.

But while police were busy keeping the gangs apart, a meeting took place between Louis Colonna, who described himself as a captain in the Italian-American Civil Rights League, and the Rev. Wilbert Miller, a black leader.

Afterward, Colonna said the two had agreed to try and keep black and white high school students away from the demonstration area. A further meeting was scheduled for today.

A crowd of about 500 white demonstrators, the smallest since the school reopened last Friday, jeered and booed the arrival of the 30 students from the Tilden housing project in the Brownsville section.

In the youth clashes, a plate glass window in a luncheonette was smashed and a school crossing guard was struck on the head.

Police taking a large group of black youths to a subway train were showered with light bulbs that had been removed from their sockets in the station.

A Roman Catholic school in the area was closed for the day because of the "troubled climate" and the 4,400-pupil Canarsie High School was shut down early amid fears of a racial disturbance there.

On Tuesday night, some 100 white adults massed at Gracie Mansion, residence of Mayor John V. Lindsay, to protest the enrollment of the students from outside the district. They dispersed after talking with one of the aides for about 10 minutes.

Earlier, the mayor had told a news conference: "I just hope in the next few days all parents will see the importance of pulling together and ending the boycott."

The students from outside the district were ordered to attend 211 by the Board of Education.

despite militant opposition of white parents who say the racial balance of the school, which is already integrated, could be tipped, leading eventually to an all black school.

"We built this area up from a swamp," declared one white mother. "We've invested all our savings here. And now there is a tremendous fear that people will move out."

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again...Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 1, 1972

WASHINGTON — The Health, Education and Welfare Department has suppressed two controversial drug studies, whose conclusions fly in the face of President Nixon's war on narcotics.

One startling study, called Drug Use and the Youth Culture, declares boldly that young people use psychedelic drugs for 'a highly moral, productive and personally fulfilling' purpose. It suggests that strict law enforcement is also driving young people 'to the left in politics.'

The other report, a more exhaustive three-volume study entitled 'Evaluation of Drug Education Programs,' calls the government's drug education efforts misdirected and not helpful.

HEW Secretary Elliott Richardson took the unusual step of locking up the three volumes in his office, say insiders, after he was tipped off that "Jack Anderson is trying to get the report."

Sources who have read the study say it is bitterly critical of the government's drug education programs.

Richardson neglected, however, to lock up the second report, which is equally critical. The study is based on exhaustive interviews with young drug users, conducted by social service workers who were carefully selected for their ability to create trust and rapport with drug users.

More than 150 interviews were held at Berkeley, Calif.; Manhattan, Kans.; Sante Fe, N.M.; New Haven, Conn.; and Washington, D.C. Here are the highlights from the 10-chapter report:

Drugs Helpful?

—"The Primary conclusions which our accounts support is that the search which young people pursue with psychedelic drugs can be a highly moral, productive and personally fulfilling one. The use of drugs may be dangerous, and eventually self-limiting, but at worst drug use may be the wrong thing done for the right reasons."

—"There is a significant contradiction between young people's experiences with drugs, which have been largely pleasant, helpful and meaningful, and the government's point of view that all or most drug use is bad and dangerous. This contradiction, and the government's position, have had destructive consequences for youth."

—"Drug laws and their enforcement seem to have no effect in deterring the young people we interviewed from illegal drug use. The reasons mainly stem from their common perceptions that drug use is not, or should not be, a criminal act because everybody does it, and because things done to oneself are constitutionally protected. Our evidence suggests that enforcement officials have greatly exaggerated the need for enforcement of drug laws."

—"Young people see enforcement as a selective enforcement against them and their preferences. Arrest and prosecution... create a fear and distrust in the youth community, which seems to lead to stronger bonds among individuals, as they unite against what they feel is a shared injustice. This is offered by many subjects to account for their shift to the left in politics after drug use."

—"Young people have been singled out as having the drug problem (along with blacks and soldiers in Vietnam), but no evidence supports this focus as the exclusive or even major focus of drug abuse or use. Other groups, including truck drivers, housewives, doctors and mental patients, seem to be using and abusing drugs regularly and harmfully, at least to the extent young people are. Young people merely extend the widespread societal reliance on drugs."

Favorite Drugs

—"Young people's 'choices of drugs, in order of popularity are: alcohol, nicotine, caffeine, marijuana, psychedelics, amphetamines, and a much less frequent use of barbiturates and opiates. With the exception of psychedelics, this tends to be the rank order of drugs used and abused throughout the society."

—"Government policies, if they are to be seen as helpful, must change their aim and focus. Rather than aim at achieving the cessation of all drug use, by rational argument, it should be recognized that young people have some valid reasons to experiment with drugs to see their effects for themselves, and that blanket condemnation of such behavior will result in their not listening to any educational effort... The government must recognize the validity of the search young people utilize drugs for, even if disapproving of the techniques, or young people will continue to be unmoved by governmental efforts to control drug use."

Kennedy and the People

(Last of two articles.)

CAMPAGNING WITH KENNEDY (NEA) — It was icy weather when Ted Kennedy reached the tiny Sanford, Me., airport to fly to Vermont. Some 1,500 people and a bare-legged girls' band were there.

Surprised at the turnout from a town of 10,000, the senator said he supposed many had missed their supper. He talked briefly, thanked them for coming out, then stepped down to shake some hands.

Aboard his small plane, he said he was sorry he could greet so few. He waved at them through the window. Then he shook his head and said to an aide: "We're too tight (on the schedule). We should have seen more of those good people."

Forty minutes later, he landed at Burlington, Vt., to find that another sizable airport crowd had been waiting two hours in 30-degree cold to greet him. Again, he rewarded them with a short talk.

Wherever he went in a two-day swing aimed at helping Democratic candidates, Kennedy was the focus. Big "Welcome Ted" signs abounded. Often his name was linked with the congressional or other contenders he was boosting. He got huge hands.

He was in friendly New England, home territory, yes, but he made out as well on a recent western trip.

In Pawtucket, R.I., his ovation was so big it was embarrassing. Ted quickly started a "We Want Pell" chant for the incumbent senator he had come to plug.

What's this all about? Is Kennedy preparing for 1976 in expectation of Sen. George McGovern's defeat?

His record suggests he'd be doing this stuff no matter what. He's always in huge demand, has almost always responded to calls for aid, and likes to help. Weeks ago, he promised to give nearly all of the last two campaign weeks to McGovern's uphill campaign.

But 1976 is never far from his thoughts. Add a McGovern defeat to the earlier chaos of the Democrats' nomination struggle, and you have a field strewn with scarred and broken bodies. Kennedy, a dominant figure, may loom then almost alone on the 1976 horizon.

You can easily make much of this if you wish. Kennedy not only works the game for all its fun, but goes at it with tireless professionalism. His staff is highly efficient. He mentions the name of a helpful young man in Maine and it is promptly noted for future use.

He constantly adds new political helpers, but the old ones, some going back to John Kennedy's time, hang in loyally. The Kennedy aura remains bright. Ted keeps it so himself, but candidates, friends and voters would sustain it even if he did not.

Mayor John Buckley of Lawrence, Mass., says "It's a joyful day when a Kennedy comes to visit us." A Boston woman touches him and says: "Good luck to you — and your family." Some observers think it's all a bit much, but it is probably inevitable.

Kennedy's fun-making has its serious core. It's no accident that some of his handclaps are audible. He's working.

It's not altogether trivial when he tells a Framingham, Mass., crowd: "We've had a nice stop-over at Paul's bakery. We picked up two eclairs and some glazed doughnuts." He's in league with people, easily and naturally.

But it can't be forgotten that he's also now a 10-year veteran of the Senate, still hard-plugging, well-schooled on many issues, a quick study of others, able to spout facts and figures convincingly — usually without the tinge of party propaganda. And he gets charged up.

The Ted Kennedy of today still carries handicaps and burdens — the lingering if fading memory of Chappaquiddick, the threats to his life, the Kennedy unpopularity in the South. These things will all get heavy attention if he becomes the big one after Nov. 7.

25th Congressional District

(comprising the City of Kingston, Esopus, Lloyd, Saugerties and Ulster in Ulster County.)

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., the incumbent Republican, has served this district well since he first was elected to Congress in 1968. Due to the shifting sands of redistricting he cannot represent as much of Ulster County as he previously did, but those voters who are eligible to vote for this candidate are urged to do so.

Fish, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, adopts a moderate political philosophy that suitably reflects the character of the area he serves. He has been energetic in responding to the requests of his constituents, yet has not been afraid to buck the administration — as evidenced by his vote to override President Nixon's veto of water pollution control.

His platform for the forthcoming term reveals a far-sighted approach to needed national legislation. Fish places a high priority for a study and future control of the solid wastes problem; he has introduced the power sites legislation to deal with the future resources of energy; he will work to ease property taxes so that the cost of public education is not solely reliant upon it; he advocates that our senior citizens have one hot meal a day available to them at schools, the cost of which would be federally supported.

Congressman Fish has been good for the area and deserves another term in Washington.

Police and Public

The 4,700 delegates to the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, meeting last week in Salt Lake City, noted the improving crime rates and expressing confidence that the trend toward the violent confrontations of the sixties was fading.

George A. Murphy, chief of the Oneida, N. Y., police and president of the association, struck a chord that was very much on the minds of his associates. He said there is a need for better understanding between the police and the legislatures, the courts, prosecutors and correctional administrators. To that end, he announced that the association would hold cooperative workshops next year with the National District Attorneys Association in Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco.

Offenses perpetrated against the police by the courts, the correctional system, the press and the general public were cited by Quinn Tamm, executive director of the association, as "a much greater injustice to our society than the mere violations of the law."

The concern of the nation's police about the public reaction to them and their work was understandable. It reached an apex when the association passed a resolution favoring imposition of the death penalty for premeditated murder, murder in the perpetration of a felony and murder of law enforcement and correctional officers.

Cooperation among various elements of the legal system is a prior need for its effectiveness. Law officers must work together, since they should surely realize that organized crime is close-held mob that must be fought by every level of law enforcement if it is to be defeated.

farewell message was, "The idea of some kind of confrontation between us is like a Siamese twin biting his brother."

AMA'S DECLINE — The American Medical Association, one of the most prestigious professional societies in the country, for the first time in at least 50 years, has declined in membership to less than half the nation's doctors. It is paring over $1 million in expenses to cut costs.

CORE'S NEUTRALITY—The refusal of the Congress of Racial Equality to endorse a presidential candidate is a blow to Senator George McGovern. He is counting on a huge black vote and any defection is serious. The 30-year-old organization has been staunchly Democratic in past campaigns.

EPERNAY, France (KFS) — There was peace in the valley for 20 years. The grapes of September were fat and dusty. The vintners coddled the plants and held them up with wire. The scarecrows in the fields did not fool the birds. Nor did the Maginot Line fool Adolf Hitler.

The peace lasted from 1919 until 1939. It was shattered by a new and more vicious type of warfare: the blitzkrieg. The Nazis ran it like a well-appointed train. The timetable read: Poland, Denmark, Norway, France, England, back to Poland and Russia.

In August, 1939, Robert-Jean de Vogue was recalled to the French army. The captain served as French liaison officer to Lord Gort, commander of British forces. The war started in September, and, by May, 1940, the Nazi claws had strangled France.

The captain was mustered out of service as a colonel.

He returned to his champagne firm, Moët et Chandon, at Epernay. De Vogue was prepared to tend the 1,600 acres of grapes owned by his family and friends. There is a law of no return on friendship as there is on peace.

There are 150 champagne firms in the Marne Valley, and they elected Robert-Jean de Vogue to "deal with the Germans." He could not refuse, nor could he confide in them that he had been appointed leader of the Resistance (FFI) in the province. He accepted, and, more important, General Kleibisch of the Germans dealt with de Vogue from his office in Rheims.

It was an uneven three-legged stool, and the man tried to sit on it. He agreed to sell millions of bottles of champagne to the German armed forces at little more than cost. If he had not agreed, the Nazis would have raided the cellars and taken what they pleased.

For three years the Gestapo watched the short Frenchman negotiate the 20 miles between Epernay and Rheims, Rheims and Epernay. They had a feeling about him. This feeling increased when they learned that the man was resisting the increasing champagne appetite of the Germans. Kleibisch fought them off.

The Gestapo arrested a Frenchman, and soon had the leaders of the Resistance. The name of Robert-Jean de Vogue led all the rest. They insisted that Kleibisch phone his French friend and order him to appear for a new wine order "in the morning."

The Frenchman did not appear on time. He phoned to say that his car had broken down. Kleibisch ordered him to appear "at once." When de Vogue got to the office, the Gestapo was waiting.

They had the right man. However, he was so well known and so popular that they required two "public" trials, with French witnesses, to order de Vogue's death. In Rheims, the condemned man studied one witness, who had indeed belonged to the Resistance.

The witness had no fingernails. He pointed at de Vogue. "This man is a traitor," he said. "He sells champagne to our enemies."

The Gestapo knew that this would look good in French newspapers. Or, as vintners say, "palatable."

He was sentenced publicly to "life imprisonment at hard labor," but was told by Nazi officers that it meant death. The one secret the Gestapo refused to share with the prisoner was "when." He was sent to a "V.I.P." prison in Leipzig. There, his mind crumbled as he waited.

A new dawn does not tick, except in the ears of the condemned. Robert-Jean de Vogue waited for each sunrise with his heart pounding in his head. A minor prisoner, jailed for poaching on a hunting estate, shared his meagre soup with de Vogue. "All of yours for you," he said. "Half of mine for me. The other half for you."

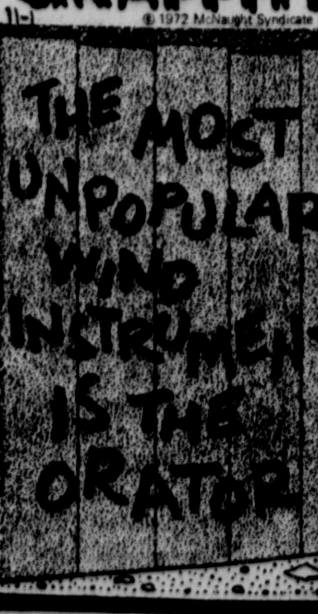

A man can die hundreds and hundreds of times. Each day was a fresh reprieve, good for 24 hours. Each footfall outside the cell was the step of doom. By the time a British patrol opened the Leipzig prison, the walking dead were afraid to step into sunshine.

De Vogue survived. His friend the poacher didn't. Nor did the man without the fingernails. In late 1945, the champagne master was returned to this valley, weighing 80 pounds. His hair whitened. One finger was missing. It had become infected in prison; a German doctor removed it.

He lived, Robert-Jean believes, because he remained close to God throughout the ordeal. "Everything was in his hands," he says. Now, at 76, he examines the fresh paintings of grape vines. He smiles at the miracle of birth.

Thirty years from now, they will be here. He won't. That is the story of the man and the wine.

Pro-Abortion

Editor, The Freeman:
Last Spring, at the abortion demonstrations at the Capitol, an Albany area legislator, (who has five children), told some members of a women's group that he would rather see his wife die in childbirth than have an abortion. His feelings are so strong that he would sacrifice his own wife . . . the mother of his existing children, for an embryo. Feeling as he does, he obviously would have no qualms about someone else's wife. When the question of abortion comes up, he will vote accordingly, and as a result, all men and women in the state will be victims of his personal beliefs.

The idea that the unborn child, innocent and untainted by sin, is more important than the mother, is a teaching of the Roman Catholic religion. (Although 56 per cent of all Catholics disagree with this, and feel that abortion should be the decision of the woman). It is also strongly stressed by Right to Life Groups. Unfortunately, Right to Life membership is 80 per cent Catholic. These people are militantly anti-abortion, and determined to impose their beliefs on everyone, are exerting tremendous pressure on legislators.

The moral of the story is simple: Beware Sanctimonious politicians. If you hear someone professing to have a great reverence for life . . . be sure you know whose life he means. (Mrs.) Jane Johnston Dwyer Kingston High School Class '48 Altamont

Dem Slate

Editor, The Freeman:
George McGovern is a dependable man. I myself like to update convictions and decisions in the light of latest available facts. I am happy that Mr. McGovern is the same way. And he is scrupulous: I like that.

McGovern is prudent. He knows that to serve the most is to hurt a few. But compassion stands him in good stead: he is fair, but never extravagantly, and continues to consult facts.

When McGovern deals with Communism it will not be, like the incumbent President, to placate powerful nations (China, Russia) or to bully small (Cuba, Vietnam). He will seek to accommodate people of the earth because he is, like others of us, a Christian respecter of people.

George McGovern embodies our Declaration of Independence. He espouses the will of our Constitution from Preamble to last Amendment. He fulfills the great Republican's pledge to keep government of, by, and for people working and vital.

We should also bless the dignity of McGovern's approach to the Presidency. He is not gung-ho to be President, 1972-76, at ANY price. Electing McGovern and Shriver will place noble Americans at the head of our country.

Graciously, we have others of the same caliber to support locally: John Dow as our man in Congress, Sears Hunter to be our Senator in Albany.

Most important, Honorable Voter, is to take your conviction to the polls on Election Day, to speak out for America. I am going to speak mine.

Very truly Yours,
ANDREW WERHUEVELT

Corrupt Campaign

Editor, The Freeman:

As a former supporter of Edmund Muskie's presidential bid, I am utterly dismayed over the Nixon staff campaign tactics this campaign year. I am referring specifically to the alleged sabotage of the Muskie campaign by a letter to the editor which claimed Muskie had slurred French-Canadians by calling them Canucks. After the statements in the letter were emphatically denied by Muskie an effort was made to locate the person who signed the letter, but the author was never found. According to Marilyn Berger, a Washington Post reporter, Mr. Clawson, a White House communications staff member and former Post reporter, told her he had written the slanderous letter. After the story appeared in the Post, Clawson denied that he had made the statement to Marilyn Berger.

I feel the implications of the sabotage extend beyond the Muskie campaign. The American system is based on the concept that truth is best served in a system in which honest and open discussion can occur. Untruthful distortion of the opposition candidates can only impair this discussion and the chance for the truth to emerge. By pursuing such tactics, Nixon is pushing his re-election at the expense of the American democratic process. Such violation of normal democratic procedure threatens the political life and should be repudiated at the polls.

Sincerely,
JOHN S. DYSON

Emptying the Wallet

Editor, The Freeman:

On Tuesday, November 7, 1972, the voters of N.Y. State will have a chance to vote on Proposition No. 1, The Environmental Quality Bond Act of 1972. A high-sounding phrase to help the taxpayer part with some more of his hard earned income.

This act is supposed to help purify the air, the water and preserve some open land. Also, another thing it will help preserve is the high income of the favorable few with tax-free income.

It will allot a few dollars to build a few sewage treatment plants, which means they will have to study the problem till the money runs out. It's supposed to allot a few more dollars to help clean up some of the state's air polluting facilities. This will leave some of the state money over to pay

Socialist View

Editor, The Freeman:

Here is good news! The Presidential candidates of the Socialist Labor Party will be on the New York State ballot, including some of the other states, in the coming Nov. 7 general election. The Socialist Labor Party qualified to appear on the ballot by having collected over 27,000 signatures on its petition.

Both Louis Fisher and Genevieve Gunderson, the national standard bearers of the Socialist Labor Party for President and Vice President, are campaigning from coast to coast and doing a splendid job.

Alone in this campaign, with its uncompromising program of human emancipation, stands the Socialist Labor Party, undaunted and undismayed by the overwhelming forces arrayed against it, convinced that through its principles and program the workers can solve the problems that plague this age and thus bring about sanity.

The emblem of the Socialist Labor Party is the Arm and Hammer.

The letter by Mrs. Rose M. Aprea in the Wednesday, October 11 Freeman gave me a good laugh! Both Nixon and McGovern are defenders of capitalism and her candidate John Schmitz belongs with them in the same camp! What's she cringing about lack of coverage Schmitz is not getting.

He's getting a lot more than the Socialist Labor Party is.

Pro-George

Editor, The Freeman:
If you are 18 or older and you don't vote or work for McGovern, you might as well wear a button saying: "I SUPPORT NIXON", because you will be giving him your "silent seal of approval" for four more years in office. There is no neutrality in this critical election year. A non-vote for McGovern is another vote for Nixon.

Even if President Richard Nixon does "End the War" the night before the election, just by coincidence, his hands are still drenched in blood; mostly Vietnamese. To make matters worse . . . Nixon is above the law. If a private citizen commits "one" murder, he can receive life imprisonment or the death penalty. The President can give the orders from the sanctuary of the White House, that kill, cripple and maim over 4 million Vietnamese and thousands of Americans; and win applause, awards and black-tie dinners.

For those people "weary" of Vietnam, let's look at the local situation. When Richard Nixon was running for President in 1968 he blamed the previous Democratic administrations for crime, drugs, inflation, unemployment and the deterioration of our cities. Here it is "4 years later", what has Nixon done? Everything has gotten worse. His "Law and Order" pledge has backfired. Respect for law enforcement officials and private property in the USA is at an all time low. Vandalism, apathy and acts of senseless violence are at an all time high. Hard drug abuse has spread like wildfire. Never before has a President of this country so demoralized the people he was elected to lead.

It seems that nobody in the press has a kind word to say about McGovern. Because he says he's honest he automatically becomes an open target for "character assassination". Everyone is intent on proving him a hypocrite, a liar. It's like a pack of vultures picking his bones, tearing him to shreds; while the real target, Richard Nixon, slips by untouched. Because he has never claimed to be honest, and never admitted to a mistake in his life, he has nothing to fear.

Richard Nixon was elected under the banner to: "Bring Us Together Again". Instead he has driven a spike deep into the heartland of America, and wrenched us farther apart from each other than ever before. He Constitution we were taught to love and respect, and with the "Watergate Incident" he has made a mockery of law and order and public office.

Instead of exploiting our differences, let us for once embrace those things we have in common with McGovern and working and moving for the defeat of "Richard Whitehouse Nixon". Let's vote him out of office and return the Government of the "United States" back to the people . . . where it belongs.

Two Trick-or-Treaters Killed by Belfast Bomb

BELFAST (UPI)—Paula Strong, 6, and her 4-year-old brother, Clare, were killed when a four-story building housing the pub, which was called Benny's Bar and located in a Roman Catholic district in Northern Ireland, exploded on Tuesday night and killed them.

They were playing "trick-or-treat," asking passersby for candy and money, when a booby-trapped car blew apart with a roar Tuesday night and killed them.

With the death of Paula and Clare, the death toll in more than three years of sectarian strife that observes no holidays and ignores age and sex climbed to 625.

The little girls were two of the four deaths Tuesday in Belfast.

"The men who left the car must have seen the children playing nearby. It makes you wonder what kind of fiends they are," Elsewhere in the city, a sniper shot and killed a British soldier on patrol in the Catholic area of New Lodge Road and another gunman shot and killed an 18-year-old automobile mechanic in the doorway of a garage in the mainly Protestant area of Lisburn Road.

DA Gives Advice In Insurance Case

KINGSTON — Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt has advised all persons who were required to obtain new automobile insurance as a result of previously having been insured through the F. William Sheehan Agency of Wittenberg Road, to present evidence of their new insurance coverage to County Clerk Albert Spada.

Spada, an agent of Vincent Tofany, state motor vehicle commissioner, will then take steps to forestall revocation of any such person's (driver's) license as a result of inadvertently driving an uninsured motor vehicle. For those persons who have already received notices of revocation as a result of the Sheehan incident, Vogt said that the same procedure should be followed and Spada will endeavor to have those revocation orders rescinded. According to Vogt, arrangements to help those persons affected in the Sheehan case were made following a conference between Tofany, Spada and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell.

Sheehan, who operated the F. William Sheehan Agency on Wittenberg Road is being sought by area law enforcement officials on a warrant issued Oct. 26 charging second degree grand larceny involving the issuance of phony insurance policies to some 150 persons. Sheehan, the warrant alleges, had been issuing insurance policies, mostly for auto insurance, and then failing to turn the money over to the insurance companies he represented. As a result, those persons were without insurance coverage. The State Motor Vehicle Department issued pickup orders for license plates on those uninsured vehicles about two weeks ago. Sheehan "disappeared" on Oct. 17. He has not been seen since although law enforcement officials have pressed their search from New York to neighboring states.

FIREMEN AND FRIENDS — Equipment from the M. F. Whitney Hose Company in Phoenicia, the Shandaken Hose Company, and the Mt. Tremper-Mt. At left are Phoenicia Chief James Quinn (light clothing) and fireman Phil Byron, who demonstrates fire procedures and answered questions from the youngsters.

Two Zoning Change Requests To Highlight 'Rules' Hearing

KINGSTON — M-2 to C-2 on a 1.48 acre parcel of land on Smith Avenue next to the Post Office to construct a 50 by 120-foot building housing a Datsun dealership along with facilities for a used car lot. The area is currently zoned industrial.

William Zang of Our Homes Inc. seeks approval of a zoning change from R-3 to R-4 to construct some 135 units of garden apartments on a 7.3 acre parcel "generally located between Grandview Avenue and Pearl Street and Millers Lane."

Off-street parking would be provided for approximately 200 cars. Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of Laws and Rules, in a news release notes that "this request would change this strict residential area to a multi-dwelling zone."

The City Planning Board has withheld approval of the zoning change unless present sewage facilities and facilities for surface runoff water are shown to be adequate. Two years ago Zang came to the Common Council with a similar proposal which was rejected because of inadequate sewage and water facilities.

Alderman Quick and his committee have urged all interested residents to come to the public hearing and express their feelings. The public hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers at city hall.

United Way Total Listed

KINGSTON — Alfred J. Brocco, general chairman of the United Way Campaign for Ulster County announced today that a total of $301,165, has been raised, representing 75 per cent of the campaign goal of $400,000. Brocco stated that "although we are entering our final week of the 1973 campaign, I am still confident that our goal will be reached. We still have 40 per cent of our accounts still outstanding, many of which are in crucial areas. The final week of the campaign should provide us with complete coverage of all our accounts, thereby moving us close to our surpassing our $400,000 goal."

"The United Way campaign will conclude at the end of this week. All solicitors are urged to complete their assignments and submit their report to the United Way office by Friday, Nov. 3."

The United Way serves 15 agencies in Ulster County. Over 800 volunteers have participated in this year's campaign. This is a crucial year for the United Way . . . a year that the minimum needs of its 15 member agencies must be met. In recent years, many agencies have undergone administrative budget reductions due to cuts in the United Way allocations . . . caused by the failure of the United Way to reach their goal. All residents are urged to support the United Way . . . so that the youth, elderly, sick and handicapped in Ulster County will find hope and happiness . . . and most important, a place in our society.

Auxiliary to Provide Gifts

NEW PALTZ — Eleanor Burke, Martha Conklin, Gerry Fall, and Linda V.F.W. Post 8645 in New Paltz will again be providing gifts for the more than 200 foster children in Ulster County.

The Children's Division of the Department of Social Services of Ulster County assumes financial responsibility as allocated by statute for the food, clothing and medical needs of the foster children. However, the division's responsibility ends there, and the Post 8645 Ladies Auxiliary has again chosen to take on the project of securing the "most wanted" gift for each child.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.

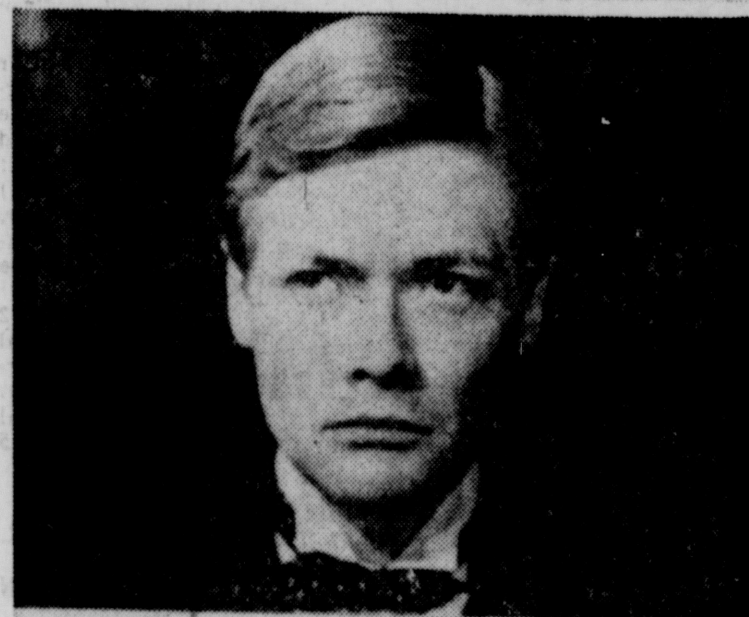

THE GOSSIP COLUMN by ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

Holiday: It's all arranged.

Niarchoses: It pays to advertise.

Ward: Sounds like Winston.

Q: Most 'First Ladies' have some pet project, like Mrs. Johnson's beautifying America. But does Mrs. Nixon have any special interest? — F.R., Des Moines, Iowa.

A: Mrs. Nixon has purposefully spread her interests around, though she is most involved with children. One of her unsung efforts has been in improving the White House. Striving for authenticity, she is on a mission to find original portraits of all the Presidents and their wives now missing from the White House. With her curator, the First Lady has hung nine priceless chandeliers, laid 13 rare handmade carpets and weeded out furniture until now only about 30 per cent of the pieces are reproductions. Mrs. Nixon insisted on lighting the White House exterior and hopes next to illuminate the gardens. She put jackets on the guards to cover their unsightly pistols and insisted they be educated to give adequate answers to tourist questions.

Q: Will it be the late Billie Holiday's voice we hear singing when Diana Ross' version of "Lady Sings the Blues" is released? — H.R., Kansas City, Mo.

A: No, you'll hear the former member of the Supremes, Diana Ross herself, singing a version or evocative impression (as opposed to an imitation) of the late great Lady Day's voice, but with the original Holiday arrangements backing her up. The effect is said to be realistic and insiders are crediting Motown chief Berry Gordy, who engineered every detail of this film.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Why is this Greek selling gifts? Or is tycoon Stavros Niarchos a little short of cash? An advertisement in Aviation magazine lists a Mystere Executive Jet for sale. There is no name, only a box number, but flying buffs recognize the plane's serial number — 198 — as belonging to Niarchos. It's not likely the man who married his former sister-in-law (Tina Onassis) is strapped for dough; probably he just wants a newer model.

Q: In the movie "Young Winston" I was curious about the narration which seemed to be the voice of Sir Winston Churchill but differed from the voice of the actor portraying him. Was the narration really from old tapes of Sir Winston? Also, why is this film, like every film, so damned long? — J.P., New York, N.Y.

A: The voice of the narration is not Sir Winston but an imitation of him by the young actor who portrays him, Simon Ward. It is odd since Ward's versions of the change in Churchill's voice from youth to old age are rather bizarre and startling. Originally the film was not so long because director Richard Attenborough had cut it to a respectable length. Writer-producer Carl Foreman insisted on reshaping it into the ponderous version now seen.

Q: What's the latest on the drug scene? — L.K., Detroit, Mich.

A: Lots of bad trips and the buyer should really beware. The "Do-It-Now" Foundation in Phoenix, Ariz., has a leaflet out telling why a lot of organic mescaline trips are such bummers — because real mescaline, psilocybin and THC are too expensive to manufacture and the ripoff artists are selling LSD, cut with STP, the animal tranquilizer PCP, and other bad combinations. Quaalude and soporific addicts should know that the drugs they are taking are terribly addictive and people treating them should know also that too rapid withdrawals can result in death.

Q: How amicable is the All MacGraw-Bob Evans split? Is Evans upset because she left him for Steve McQueen? — H.O., Roanoke, Va.

A: It may seem amicable on the surface because Paramount executive Evans is as smooth as silk, but the truth is he is smarting over his estranged wife's hot romance with the movie stud, though McQueen can in no wise be blamed for splitting up an already shattered marriage. Still, Evans would like to get custody of his son Joshua and is watching Ali carefully.

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were headed upward in today's stock market, extending Tuesdays' one-day rally.

Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange had a lead of more than 2 to 1 over declining stocks and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead about a point.

Some analysts said that investors' preoccupation with each new report from the Vietnam peace negotiations has obscured the strength of the economy and the favorable third quarter earnings reports.

"We feel that the market's fundamentals will take hold before long," said Albert M. Klein, research director of Edward A. Viner & Co. "We need the end of the war and the end of the election so that things can get in focus again. Little attention has been paid to what really has been happening in the economy."

Exxon Corp. celebrated the launching of its new trade name — it formerly was Standard Oil (New Jersey) — by swinging into first place among the Big Boards' most active issues, up 1/2 to 84.

Quotations by First Albany Corporation, members of New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange, 52 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y., David J. Lamb, resident manager. Phone 338-2444.

Boggs Search Remains at Standstill

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The air search for House Majority Leader Hale Boggs and three others was at a standstill today for the third straight day because of the rugged Alaska weather.

Air Force officials, admitting the chances of finding the four men alive were growing slimmer, would only say their planes were "standing by" for the snow and low clouds to dissipate so they could be sent aloft again.

Boggs, D-La.; Rep. Nick Begich, D-Alaska; his aide, Russell Brown, and pilot Don E. Jonz disappeared Oct. 16 in a light plane on a 550-mile flight from Anchorage to Juneau.

Acquit Ehrlich

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jerome Ehrlich, a former director of Monticello Raceway, was acquitted Tuesday of charges he devised a fraudulent tax scheme in connection with his raceway winnings.

A federal jury of eight men and four women found the 41-year-old South Fallsburg resident innocent after about three hours of deliberation. His trial in Manhattan Federal Court began Monday.

Ehrlich was indicted in September on charges he conspired with two others to have one of them cash in his six winning tickets, worth $10,467, so that Ehrlich would not be liable for the resulting taxes.

The race involved was the tenth race at Monticello on June 11, 1971, the so-called superfecta. The two-count indictment resulted in a one-year investigation of the race by the FBI, U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour Jr. said in announcing the indictment.

Ehrlich was director of the raceway from 1959 to last March 30. He is currently general manager of the Pines Hotel in South Fallsburg.

Area Farmers Hear Good News At Agway Meeting Upstate

SYRACUSE — Area farmers attending the eighth annual meeting of Agway Inc., Oct. 19-20, in Syracuse, were told that the cooperative set a sales record in 1971-72 of more than $540 million, up $14.5 million for the year. Earnings of $8.8 million, however, were $1.7 million under the previous year.

Ronald N. Goddard, Agway executive vice-president and general manager, told some 4,500 farmer-members and guests that adverse weather conditions, price controls, some loss operations, and the disappointing outcome of a food marketing venture contributed to the drop in earnings.

Attending the meeting from this area were Manager Joe Bartle of Accord Farmers Co. and committeemen Don Christiana, George DePuy, Wayne Kelder and Robert Kelder Jr., and S. Miller, salesman.

Agway Inc., with headquarters in Syracuse, is a farm supply and food marketing business owned by 110,000 farmers in 12 northeastern states. It was formed in 1964 by the merger of three regional cooperatives.

Goddard said that despite the dip in over-all earnings, there were encouraging increases in several areas of Agway operation. These included, he said, petroleum, building department and supply centers.

Goddard also noted that Agway had 110,000 members and that their investment in Agway securities totaled $90 million.

He compared these figures with membership of 85,000 when Agway was formed in 1964 and initial farmer investment of $49 million.

Manhattan Shirts . . . a New Sportswear Unit

NEW YORK — The Manhattan Shirt Company has established a new Men's Sportswear Division with an outstanding professional to head it up.

Called Manhattan ManSport Division, it will be the fashion sportswear component of the Manhattan Shirt Co. To head up ManSport, Manhattan has appointed Maurice Gordon, senior vice president — Sportswear for Manhattan. Gordon was formerly executive vice-president in charge of merchandising at M & D Simon-Donegal.

In announcing the appointment, William J. McKenna, president of Manhattan, said: "While it is generally recognized among furnishings manufacturers that there is a high potential in sportswear, and there is much conversation about the possibilities, no major shirt firm has truly structured themselves organizationally to take advantage of the opportunity. Through our Manhattan ManSport Division, we are building a vertical sportswear organization parallel to our dress shirt organization. This will mean concentrated expertise. It will mean that time, energy, and money will be available to innovate and to create. In the long run it should mean that Manhattan sportswear will become one of the largest and most profitable sportswear resources in the industry."

Gordon added: "Sportswear represents the new face of America. It must both lead and follow the life styles of our people. Sportswear is more than ever 'fashion' . . . but it is also more than ever 'business.' That is why I believe the concept of ManSport within the highly successful framework of Manhattan will be so important to America's retailers. It is not only knowing what to do and when to do it; but how to do it and where to get the means to do it. I believe the Manhattan ManSport Division has a great team with which to accomplish our goals."

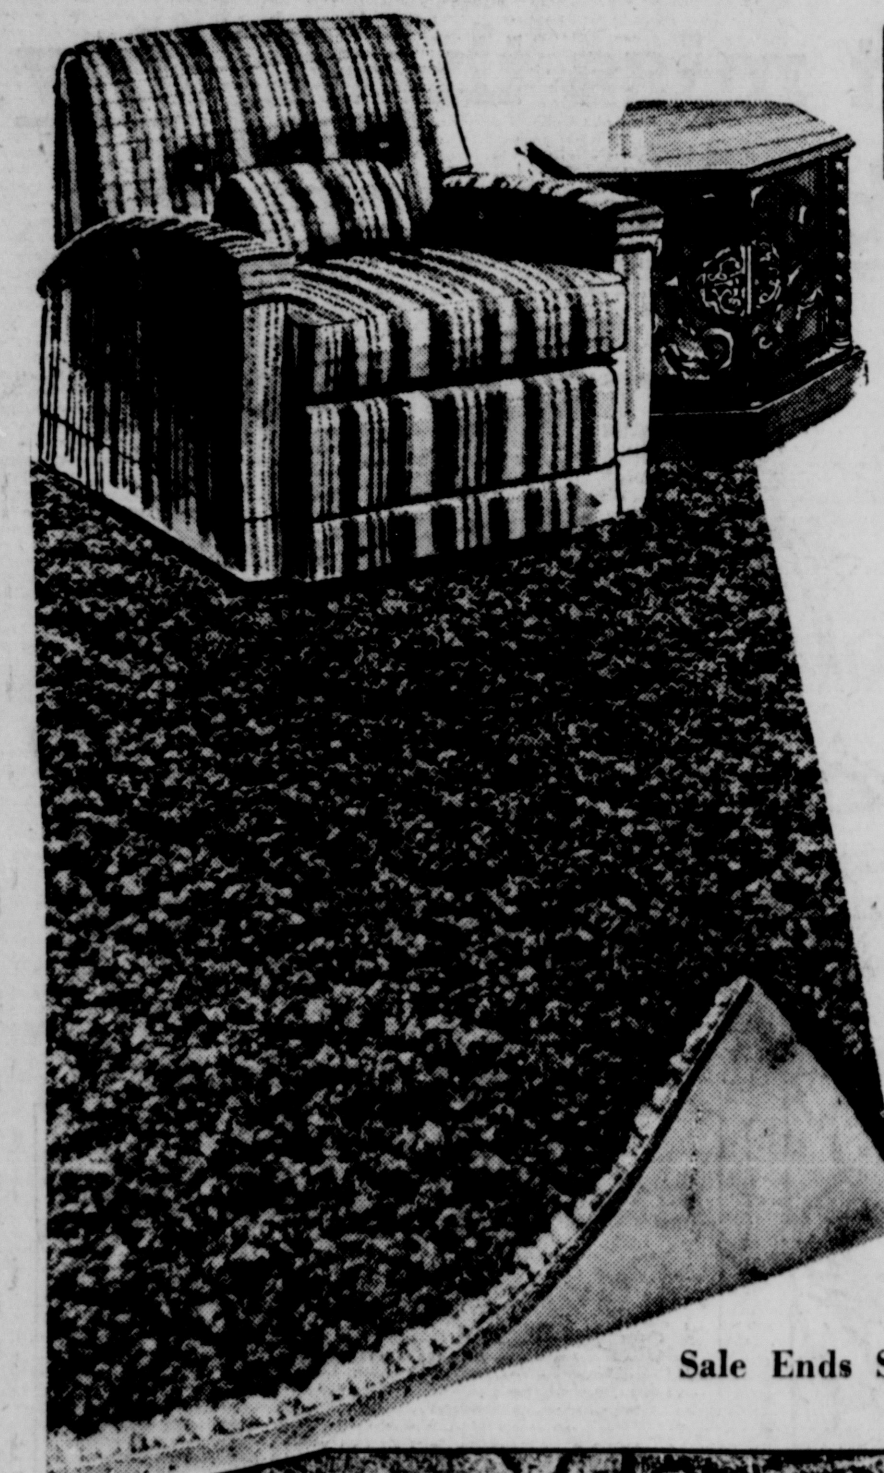

Other members of the executive team are Allen Sirkin, vice-president, sportswear; Jack Cappetilli, manager of cut-and-sewn sportswear and Steve Meisel, manager of knitted sportswear.

Grimaldi Buick Opening

KINGSTON The grand opening of the Grimaldi Buick Opel Automobile Agency, 10 Main Street, the former Kingston Buick Inc. Agency, will be held Friday at 6 p.m. according to the new owner, Frank Grimaldi, who recently purchased the corporation from Conrad and Elizabeth Gross.

Grimaldi is vice-president and general manager and Joseph Servidone, of Ellenville, who is engaged in the heavy construction business there, is president.

The newly furnished paneled, papered and carpeted showroom already holds the new line of 1973 Buicks and Opels and a large selection of new models will be on display for visitors. Grimaldi has added new mechanics and new sales personnel to the staff and promises "one of the finest service departments in the area." New equipment has been installed in the shop and service will be provided daily as well as up until noon on Saturdays, he said. "Having a fine, outstanding service department is our biggest goal," Grimaldi added.

Grimaldi, a native of Ulster County who was born in Glasco, has also announced a new customer service department with Barbara Naccarato in charge. George Jackson, who has been a part of the sales organization for many years, will remain with the agency. Others in sales include William McGrath, Donald Ferraro, Donald Servidone and Arthur Ellis. Jack Musillo is the new service manager.

The showroom is open daily Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and on Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Buick's 1973 line includes the Century, LeSabre, Centurion, Riviera, Electra and Estate Wagon while Opel presents the Manta for the coming season.

Buick 1973 is Buick with a "solid feeling," Grimaldi said. Buick tests, engineers and builds every new car to exacting standards because "that's the way a Buick becomes a Buick," he said.

Describing the Manta, Grimaldi called it "economical, dependable and beautiful. Beautiful to look at, comfortable to be in and extremely good on the road and easy to afford."

Mantas come in a number of models — Manta Luxus, Manta Rallye, Manta GT, Wagon and 1900 Sedans.

Walk-Up Teller Window At Uptown Trust Co.

KINGSTON A new walk-up teller window facility has been placed in operation at Kingston Trust Company's 27 Main Street office in Kingston.

The window, operated in conjunction with the two station drive-in facility opened earlier this fall, is accessible to pedestrians from the Main Street sidewalk.

Joseph W. Robertson, president of Kingston Trust, has announced that the walk-up window will be in operation during the same hours as the drive-in facilities: Mondays from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In addition to providing extra banking hours, the walk-up facility should prove a real convenience to customers when they have young children with them in baby carriages or strollers, Robertson said.

Marx Returns To Cody Lumber

SAUGERTIES When you are building buildings, one of the most important features to know about is the roof. If you know Bob Marx, who works for Cody Lumber Company, you have an expert to go to. Bob recently attended a one-week seminar in Jacksonville, Fla., studying roofing systems and on-line service for roof truss construction.

Al Cody, president of the company located in Malden-on-Hudson, said, "As one of the larger outfits involved in this type of roof manufacture in this area, Cody depends on men like Bob Marx to keep up with all the latest developments and improvements available."

In addition to this concentrated seminar on roof trusses, Marx also was involved in running tests on other competitive systems. Primarily, the classes put greatest emphasis on the use of trusses in the design and construction of any type roof. Unfortunately, Marx said he was kept so busy that he knows a lot more about roofs but hardly anything about palm trees.

ULSTER SAVINGS AWARD—Mrs. Clyde Deavers of Woodstock, awards chairman of Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, presents organizational award to Alfred Schmid, trustee of Ulster Savings Bank. Howard C. St. John, bank president, looks on approvingly. The award was in recognition of the bank's efforts in enhancing the surroundings and giving continual aesthetic pleasures to the public with their artistic achievement. This was evidenced, Mrs. Deavers pointed out, by the plantings outside the buildings and throughout the mini-park. Schmid was instrumental in the creation of the bank's mini-park and parking facilities. (Photo Workshop)

PEDAL POWER—For this happy couple the best way of seeing the sights on crisp fall afternoons is by bicycling, a growing national pastime that today numbers more than 80 million fans. Boosting the popularity of bikes, which estimates say will out sell automobiles this year, are the lightweight models shown here in New York City's Battery Park. These sleek F. W. Woolworth machines are big sellers throughout the country—and for good reason. Light frames, skinny wheels, and 10-speed gears make for effortless cycling on hilly as well as flat terrain. Two F. W. Woolworth stores are located in the Kingston area at 311 Wall Street, and in the Ulster Avenue Mall Shopping Center.

Army Bonus...Not for Women

KINGSTON — The Army's offer of $1,500 bonuses to enlistees who volunteer for combat arms assignments is not open to women, according to Sergeant Lloyd Canfield, local Army recruiter.

"I've had to explain to several young ladies that the recent Women's Army Corps expansion opens all Army specialties to women except 48 combat related jobs," commented the sergeant.

Qualified young men, with or without prior service, are eligible for the guaranteed bonus if they enlist for combat arms before the offer expires on October 31.

Recruits without prior service must enlist for four years and satisfactorily complete basic and advanced training before they can collect the $1,500 bonus.

Prior servicemen must enlist for four years and possess a military occupational specialty in Infantry, Armor, or Artillery in addition to meeting other enlistment criteria.

Additional information about the combat arms bonus enlistment offer may be obtained from Sgt. Canfield at the local Army Recruiting office, Broadway and Maiden Lane.

Sgt. Canfield also pointed out that a WAC recruiter makes regular visits to the Kingston office on Thursdays. He suggested a call at the office in advance for appointments.

John Schmitz Stumping Nation

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—affectionate nods with the From the tables down at one type of system in which Mory's to the bayous where you can have everyone equal Huey Long dwell, John Schmitz and that is under a totalitarian system.

Then he asks, 'Why does a newborn baby cry?' and gets his biggest laugh of the night with the answer: 'Because he's naked, he's hungry and he already owes the government $5,800.'

The next evening he is 1,200 miles north at famed Mory's Tavern, telling the conservative intelligentsia of Yale University that 75 per cent of America's heroin grows in Chinese opium fields which either should be plowed under by the Communists or "defoliated" by U.S. bombers.

He keeps the scholars amused with cracks like: 'I have a Jewish vote and I have a Negro vote—one of each.'

Schmitz has compressed his platform to two simple planks most Americans would heartily endorse: '1. Never go to war unless you plan on winning. 2. Those work ought to live better than those who won't.'

His campaign slogan, lifted from a beer commercial, is: 'When you're out of Schmitz you're out of gear.'

'Happening' Is Scheduled

NEW PALTZ The Joint Action Committee of Developing Awareness of the New Palitz Central School District is sponsoring a Human Relations Happening Friday and Saturday, Nov. 10 and 11 at Lake Minnewaska.

James J. Foley, director of the human relations project in the Buffalo Public Schools will conduct the sessions. He has conducted similar workshops in many school districts in New York State and around the country on people-to-people relationships.

Schools in the New Palitz district will close Friday, Nov. 10 as follows: high school 11 a.m.; middle school 11:10 a.m.; and Duane and Gardiner Schools at noon.

Incidentally, he adds, "if I am ever gunned down by a political assassin in the course of being George Wallace's replacement I do not want a restrictive gun law passed as a memorial to my death. That would give my enemies two victories."

Schmitz' campaign kit contains a repertoire of one-line funnies, a loud prophecy of traveling the slippery road to "totalitarianism" and very little money. "We expect to spend somewhere short of $1 million," he says.

One night he is in Shreveport, La., denouncing "forced integration of schools" and drawing

How to turn nature's flour into natural bread.

It's easy, honest.

Bread baking is really nothing to be afraid of.

Because our King Arthur recipe will have you enjoying delicious, home-made natural bread in just 4 hours. (And most of that time, the bread is doing all the work itself!)

Why do we say natural bread? Well, we don't bleach our flour to make it white. Or add any additives. Our flour is naturally white, and naturally pure (we've made it that way since 1790).

That's why King Arthur Flour is nature's flour.

And it has the higher protein content that's so important in baking.

So open up a bag of our good King Arthur Flour.

And let's bake bread.

Here's what you'll need:

Yield: two loaves
1 cup water
1 cup whole or skim milk
6 tablespoons butter, margarine, or oil
2 tablespoons honey or sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 pkg. active dry yeast
5½-6 cups King Arthur Flour

Mixing

Combine water, milk and shortening in a saucepan and heat until lukewarm.

Pour into mixing bowl, and add sugar, salt, yeast and 2 cups of King Arthur Flour.

Beat for 2 minutes with an electric beater at medium speed. Then, stirring by hand, gradually add the balance of the flour until the dough pulls away cleanly from the sides of the bowl.

Kneading

Place the dough on a floured board. To knead, fold the far edge of the dough back over on itself toward you. Then press into the dough, pushing it away with the heels of your hands. Repeat in a continuous rhythm.

(After each push, turn the dough about one-fourth of the way around.) While kneading, you'll occasionally have to sprinkle a little more flour on the board to keep the dough from sticking. When the dough has been kneaded enough (about 7 or 8 minutes) it won't stick to the board or your hands. It will look smooth, and feel elastic and satiny.

Before rising

Round the dough into a smooth ball. Place it in a lightly greased bowl, and turn the dough to grease its entire surface. The dough should only half fill the bowl.

Cover the bowl with a towel and set it in a warm place (78 to 82 degrees is best) for 1½ hours or until double in bulk.

After rising

You can tell when your dough has risen enough by pressing one of your fingers deeply into it.

If the impression remains, the dough is light and ready to be panned. Don't let the dough overrise, because your bread could have a yeasty taste.

Punching down

Place your fist against the dough and punch down into the bowl. (This breaks up gas pockets that would cause holes.) Then fold the edges of the dough down into the bowl and punch down again.

Divide the dough in half, shape into two loaves, and place into greased bread pans. Let the dough rise for about an hour, or until double in bulk.

Baking

Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 45 minutes. Keep the pans apart so the heat can circulate freely.

"Oven spring" (the first quick rising) will take place in the first 10 minutes. If the oven temperature is right, no browning should occur.

Your bread is done when the loaves shrink from the pan and sound hollow when the top crust is tapped with a finger.

After baking

Remove the loaves from their pans immediately and place on cooling racks. Don't cover them or your bread will be soggy.

If you want a soft crust, brush the tops with melted shortening.

Be sure bread is completely cool before storing.

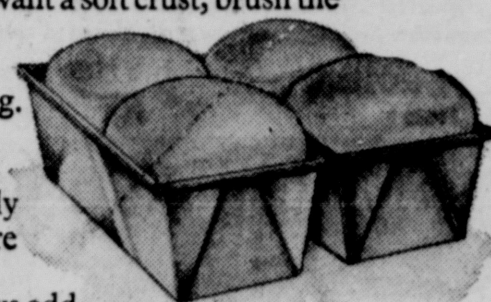

Since we add no preservatives, you'll probably want to freeze one loaf to keep it fresh. Just place it in a sealed plastic bag first.

When defrosting, leave your bread in the plastic bag to keep the moisture and flavor.

Wallace Is Man in Middle

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, who wanted the job himself, is caught in the middle in the presidential election. He has not endorsed any candidate nor is he likely to now. The risk of political retribution is too great.

So Wallace is waiting it out, perhaps to run again himself in 1976 as he has said he may do if his health permits.

Wallace campaigned for the Democratic presidential nomination until he was wounded May 15 at Laurel, Md., in an assassination attempt which left him paralyzed in the legs.

His disagreement with Sen. George McGovern over such issues as school busing and the war in Vietnam, and his oft-expressed dissatisfaction with the Democratic party platform made it all but impossible from the outset for Wallace to support McGovern as the presidential nominee.

It became obvious, too, that McGovern has little chance, if any, to carry Alabama. Even if the governor wanted to endorse him for the sake of party loyalty, it would invite reprisals from disgruntled voters if Wallace runs for office again in the state.

And there is increasing evidence that he probably will seek a third term as governor jeopardize Wallace's standing in the Democratic party nationally and weaken what chance he might have in 1976, but it could bring retribution at home, serious enough, perhaps, to disqualify him from running for governor as a Democrat.

The state Democratic executive committee, which runs the party at the state level, is strongly anti-Wallace, so much so that it handpicked party nominees for presidential election.

The regular Democratic electors chosen by the people were pledged to the governor instead of the national party ticket.

"THE CANDIDATE THAT GIVES YOU A CHOICE"

More than 5,000 independent voters chose YALE RAPKIN to make their voice heard in Congress. With most Americans he stands against liberalized abortion, forced busing, and wasteful governmental spending. He is for states' rights over federal domination and for citizens' control over their own lives. He favors restitution of the death penalty for extreme crimes against the person and the nation.

Rapkin is honest, outspoken, and a fighter.

He knows what we want.

He is what America needs now.

Election Night Discussion in New Paltz

A special election night discussion about government and religion will be conducted at the State University College at New Paltz Nov. 7 by Francine du Plessix Gray, noted journalist, author and anti-war activist.

Mrs. Gray's lecture and discussion, entitled "The Revolution in Religion," will deal largely with the growth of an "unofficial state religious ethic in Washington represented by President Nixon, Billy Graham, and the Pentagon."

A staff writer for the New Yorker and a frequent contributor to other magazines and newspapers, Mrs. Gray was born in France, came to the United States at age 11, and attended Bryn Mawr and Barnard colleges where she studied philosophy.

Her controversial book on religious conviction and active opposition to government policy entitled "Divine Disobedience" was published in 1970 by Alfred Knopf.

The 8 p.m. program is part of the "Forum for Alternatives" lecture series.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream," Shakespeare's popular comedy, is a fantasy of folklore and fairies. It has been suggested that the romantic play was written for the wedding of some great personage around May Day. It has the qualities of the popular wedding entertainment of the time, because it emphasizes costume, pageantry and reverie, rather than dramatic plot and poetry. The production will be given at 8:15 p.m. in the John C. Quimby Auditorium. The play is open to the public and there is no admission charge. Not How You Play—How You Win, Lose

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy, but please don't mention my age. My problem is that I like sports, but I am a rotten loser. I get hotheaded and angry and blow up whenever I lose. Sometimes when I am behind, I even quit before the game is over. Once when I missed the basket in a basketball game, I kicked the ball and walked off the court.

I know I can't win all the time, but I wish I could just have fun and enjoy the game without getting so mean and angry.

I guess I am just a born poor loser. Can you help me?

POOR LOSER IN LEAVENWORTH, KAS.

DEAR LOSER: There are no "good" losers. Just good actors. Everyone wants to win, but it takes self control and maturity to lose with grace. Holding your anger inside is unhealthy, so when you lose, sock it to a punching bag and get the hostility out of your system. But do it privately!

DEAR ABBY: Every so often I see a letter in your column from some wife complaining because her husband calls waitresses "Honey," and gets too chummy with them.

My father had that habit, and my mother didn't mind. In fact, she said there was a good reason for it. She said a waitress will always give better service to customers who compliment her on her looks and show a special friendliness toward her.

SPARTENBURG, S.C.

DEAR SPARTENBURG:

Could be. But the best insurance for good service is to have been there before and have left a generous tip.

DEAR ABBY: For the last four years I have been married to a man whose wife died after a 25-year marriage. This is my first marriage. We didn't marry until his first wife had been dead for five years, so it couldn't be said that I rushed him into anything.

All of our friends are people my husband and his first wife knew. And whenever we are in their company, they never fail to bring up the past, discussing in great detail "old times" involving my husband and his first wife. It's not just a casual reference to her. It's one long, drawn out story after another in which my husband and his first wife are the main characters.

This hurts me, but I am at a loss to handle it.

We are very happy, and he has told me often that a person cannot live in the past. He has also told his friends that, but it doesn't seem to penetrate. What is your suggestion? Or have any of your readers had this problem and found a solution?

NUMBER TWO: DEAR NUMBER TWO: If your husband is as considerate as he should be, he should let his friends know that their constant references to his first wife are out of order. And if they don't cut it out, perhaps new friends are the solution.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STILL WONDERING": When a gift is damaged in the mails, the one who INSURED it gets the insurance money, not the one to whom the gift was sent.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY BOX 96700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Photography Show Saturday

On Saturday at 4 p.m. there will be a first at Woodstock Art Gallery. A full photography show will be presented by Woodstock Artists Association. This exhibit will be another breakthrough by the present executive board. It follows such innovations as: awards for best in show; one-man, one-woman shows; and other activities which tie the gallery more closely to the community.

Photographers were "poor relations" to established plastic arts. At the WAA gallery, they were relegated to the back exhibit room. Photography has come of age. Artistic possibilities inherent in photography will be shown under the professional guidance of Dennis Stock. Some images can be recommended to mature adults only. There will be a generous selection of all styles of photography, including some documentaries.

Three Factors Helped Perry

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gaylord Perry figures three factors—one psychological, one physical and the other personal—helped him win the prestigious Cy Young award as the best pitcher in the American League in 1972.

Perry's psychological advantage, he says, though some hitters will insist it is much more real than fantasized, is his reputation as a spit-ball thrower. Spit-balls, which can break in any direction and are especially difficult to hit, are not permitted.

"I don't mind the opposing managers continually asking to see the ball, it's part of the game," Perry said. "It also helps to keep the hitters guessing."

Bill Freehan, the AL's starting catcher in this year's All-Star game, when told he would be catching Perry, had little guessing to do. "I guess," said Freehan, "I'll just bring my old glove and leave my new one at home. I wouldn't want to get it wet."

The physical advantage Perry claims is the change from pitching on several fields with artificial turf in the National League, where the 34-year old right-hander spent his first ten years in the majors throwing for the San Francisco Giants before being traded last fall for fireballer Sam McDowell, to the natural turf of the AL.

"They have six fields in the National League with artificial turf," Perry said. "But our league only has one. I'm a low ball pitcher. I get them to hit the ball on the ground and there's no unusual carom on natural turf."

But most of all, Perry, whose credentials for the Cy Young honor include a 24-16 season for the fifth-place Cleveland Indians, a 1.92 ERA and 29 complete games in 40 starts, gives credit for the sparkling success he found in his first year in the AL to his catcher, Ray Fosse.

"Fosse pushes you for nine innings, sets up your pitches and is the best thing that could happen to a pitcher in tight situations," Perry said.

Fosse, happy over the news that Perry had won the award, repaid the compliment in full. "There's a tremendous feeling in catching him," Fosse said. "It's almost like being in a rocking chair because you know he's going to be around the plate. And he doesn't give in to the hitters. Lots of times when the count is 3-0, Perry will come in with a slider or curve because he knows they'll be hitting."

In winning the award, Perry became the second member of his family to achieve that honor, his brother Jim having won in 1970 with Minnesota.

Gaylord, whose best ERA ever for the Giants was 2.44 and whose best won-loss record was 23-13 in 1970, outpooled knuckleballer Wilbur Wood of Chicago.

Perry received nine first-place votes and a total of 64 points from the voting panel of 24 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. Wood received seven first-place votes and a total of 58 points.

Others in the running were Detroit's Mickey Lolich, who had three first-place votes and a total of 27 points, Oakland's Jim Hunter (26 points), Baltimore's Jim Palmer (20 points), Boston's Luis Tiant (16 points), New York's Sparky Lyle (3 points) and California's Nolan Ryan (2 points). Five points were given for a first place vote, three points for second place, and one point for third.

Phils Weren't Satisfied

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Phillies, not satisfied with having the best pitcher in the National League, went to the trading block Tuesday and acquired Jim Lonborg, who once held the same title in the American League.

"We had to come up with No. 2 and No. 3 pitchers to back up Steve Carlton," said General Manager Paul Owens.

Carlton was about the only bright spot last season when the Phillies finished a dismal last in the East Division. He had a 27-10 record last season, and his pitching accounted for almost half of the Phillies' total wins.

Lonborg came to the Phillies from the Milwaukee Brewers in a seven-man deal. Out of the lot the Phillies picked up four pitchers, the others being starter Ken Brett and relievers Ken Sanders and Earl Stephenson.

The Brewers got third baseman Don Money, pitcher Billy Champion, a 14-14 last season, and infielder Don Vukovich.

The 29-year-old Lonborg was the pride of the Boston Red Sox in 1967 when he was 22-9 and won two of three starts in the World Series. However, he seriously injured his knee that winter in a skiing mishap and has not been near that form since. He was 14-12 with Milwaukee last season.

Owens, seeing what he thinks is a solid pitching staff, said Lonborg is "almost back to form."

"I don't think I throw as consistently hard as I did five years ago," Lonborg said. He said his knee "hasn't been a problem since it was operated on."

Lonborg said he looked forward to pitching in the National League, where umpires are reputed to call a lower strike than in the American League.

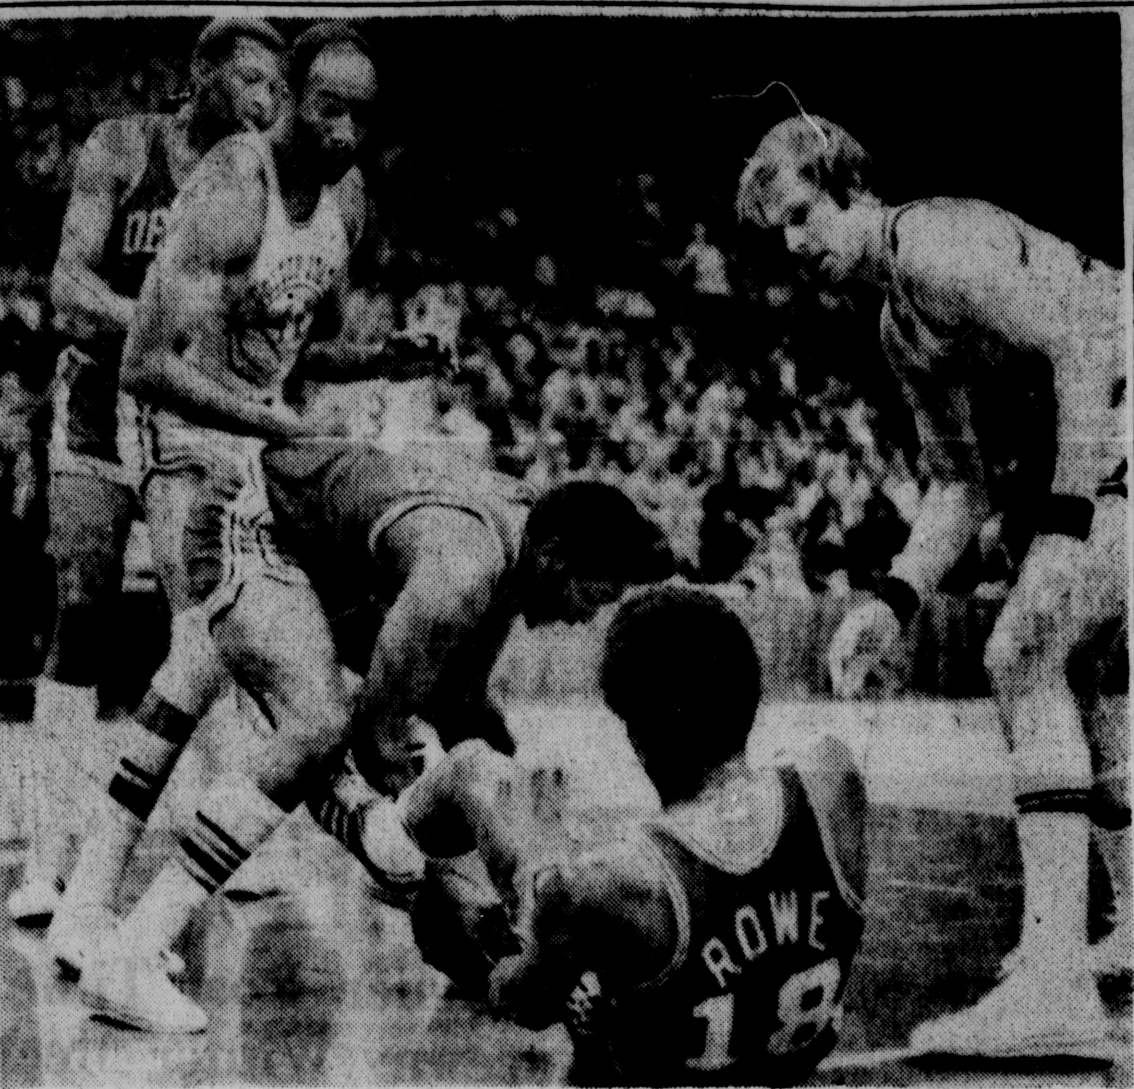

"I think I'll have an extra advantage because I'm essentially a low-ball pitcher, and the National League's lower strike zone should help me," he said.

Brett, 24, is a southpaw who was 7-12 last season. Phillies shortstop Larry Bowa said Brett was one of the "hardest throwers" he ever faced when both were in the minors.

Sanders, 31, was 2-9 with the Brewers, but saved 17 games. Stephenson was 3-5.

In 1970, Money posted a .285 batting average, but was only .222 this past season. Vukovich hit .262 with Eugene, Ore., of the Pacific Coast League last season.

REST STOP — Lying on his back, Pistons Curtis Rowe (18) rolls the ball to teammate Willie Norwood, who then tried to hook a shot over Warrior center Nate Turmond (L) but was fouled in first period action. Warrior Rick Barry (R) looks on and Pistons' Bob Lanier is behind Turmond. Warriors won, 112-104. (UPI)

Murphy's Big Play Removes Suspense

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That's the way to win them, man," little Calvin Murphy declared. "Why get a big lead at the start and take away all the suspense?"

Murphy, Houston's 5-foot-10 backcourtman, almost went too far with the suspense bit Tuesday night, but came up with the big play that gave the Rockets a 106-105 victory over the Atlanta Hawks in National Basketball Association action.

With 15 seconds to go and Houston in front 104-102, Murphy lost the ball on a turnover. Atlanta's Pete Maravich sank a 14-foot jumper with 10 seconds left to tie the game, was fouled on the play and hit the free throw to put Atlanta up by one.

But Murphy atoned for his mistake by coming right back down court and sinking a 15-foot jump shot with just three seconds showing on the clock, giving Houston the one-point victory.

We were fortunate to win," Murphy said afterwards. "Maravich made a great shot to put them ahead, and I just made a lucky one to win it for us."

In other NBA games, Cleveland topped Philadelphia 126-116, Chicago beat Kansas City-Omaha 104-95 and Golden State defeated Detroit 112-104.

Houston's Jack Marin had a game-high 26 points, while Murphy finished with 20. For Atlanta, Walt Bellamy had 23, Maravich 21 and Lou Hudson 20.

Bobby Smith came off the bench to score 27 points and spark Cleveland to victory. It was the ninth consecutive defeat for winless Philadelphia, the worst start in the team's history.

Chicago forwards Chet Walker and Bob Love combined for 17 points in a third-period spurt that broke open the Bulls' game against the Kings. Norm Van Lier scored 20 points, and newly acquired Dennis Awrey filled in capably at center.

Rick Barry scored six points in the final minute to give the Warriors a comeback victory over Detroit.

The Pistons had led 100-94 with 5:30 to go in the game, but baskets by Cazzie Russell, Jeff Mullins and Jim Barnett tied the score. The Warriors then outscored the Pistons 12-4, with Barry hitting two baskets and pair of free throws.

Barry led all scorers with 27 points, while Dave Bing was

Squires Show Control

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Virginia Squires played a waiting game and all the self-control paid off with a victory Tuesday night.

The Squires, leading the American Basketball Association East, trailed Carolina 60-52 at the half and 90-85 after three quarters. But then they began to move behind center Jim Eakins and forward Julius Erving.

Eakins and Erving each scored 10 points in the fourth period and the Squires pulled the game out 120-114.

"I think our team, even though it got behind, went right ahead with its game plan," said Johnny Kerr, the Virginia general manager. "They got the ball in to our center and it worked just beautifully."

Virginia had used up much of three periods trying to shut off the hot-shooting Joe Caldwell, who finished with 36 points. Teammates Billy Cunningham and Mack Calvin added 19 and 15 points, respectively, for the Cougars.

As it was, it took a 35-point period for Virginia and a defense that held Carolina to 24 points to get the victory. Eakins scored a total of 31 points while Erving had 24 and Bernie Williams added 17.

In other ABA action, Denver whipped Utah 116-103 and Kentucky beat San Diego 119-109.

Warren Jabali scored 28 points, 13 in the fourth quarter, and had 10 assists as Denver snapped its four-game losing streak.

Cross Country... Past, Present, Future

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON Local cross country's past, present, and future merged at Dietz Stadium Tuesday.

The past was represented by former Kingston High School Athletic Director G. Warren Kias, who laid out the Dietz course some 30 years ago and now serves as starter at Maroon home meets; the present was represented by the Kingston High varsity, a brilliant team, possibly the best in school history, which defeated city rival Coleman, also a strong squad, 19-41; and the future was represented by Coleman's junior varsity, which may have shown the way things are going to be, as it blanketed the KHS JV, 13-50. This was the third time Kingston and Coleman have met in cross country and the varsity victory enabled the Maroons to take the lead in the series, 2-1. But by winning the JV race, Coleman not only gained its first win in that series, but the school recorded its second triumph ever over Kingston in any sport. The first, obviously, was in varsity cross country last year.

There was really little doubt that Kingston would take heltime of 10:28 topped White, gear. His time was a personal year and they wanted this one record. Coleman's ace Tony Maneen, utilizing a strong finishing kick, came on strong to take third place away from Kingston's Bruce Chambers, in 11:31. But Chambers and Bill Krempel finished four-five to all but cinch victory for the Maroons. Tom Nee was sixth for Coleman followed by Kingston's Dan Kelly and Hugh Greer, and Coleman's Paul Schiller. Mark Davis of KHS was tenth. "The kids were really up for it," noted Kingston coach Ron Ward's face was the way Gabriele. "We lost to them last the JV race turned out. In shutting Kingston off, Coleman put seven runners ahead of the first little Maroon and indicated that the varsity series would be even after next year's run. Steve Weishaupt won the JV race in 12:39. The only major ill effect of the day's activities, which attracted nearly 100 fans, was an injury suffered by Kingston's Ken Sutherland, who fell heavily and was cut above the eye and on the leg. A motorist on Lucas Avenue, on which part of the course covers, seeing the fallen runner, picked him up and brought him back to the Stadium from where he was sent to Kingston Hospital for precautionary measures.

Teammate Keith White (C) heads for home in 10:41, second to Cabell. Coleman's Tony Maneen (L) is third in the event in 11:31. The third annual meeting between the two schools was won by Kingston, 19-41, to enable the Maroons to take a 2-1 lead in the series. Cabell was individual winner all three years. (Freeman photos by Haines)

UCCC Harriers 2nd In Conference Race

MIDDLETOWN The annual Mid-Hudson Conference cross country championships were held at Watts Park here Tuesday and the host team, Orange County Community College, came away with top honors. The Colts' fine young harrier, John Thorpe, won the individual title in a time of 20:22 and was followed closely by teammates Phil Kretz and George Shurter. Orange's performance had double meaning, since the meet was used to make up a previously postponed race between it and Ulster Community College. Both teams had been unbeaten and the winner would take the Conference's team title. But Orange, with the trio

The Senators best was a seventh (or fifth in the dual meet) recorded by Dennis O'Dell in 21:52. Steve Schallenkamp, normally Ulster's No. 1 man, was eighth against Orange and 13th overall, a sharp drop for the former Kingston High harrier. "He was very disappointed in his performance," said Ulster coach Rick Perkins. The title was the fourth in a row for Orange. Thorpe was winning his first conference crown. He graduated from Port Jervis High last June. Ulster completed the season with a 5-1 dual meet record. The results: MID-HUDSON CONFERENCE

NEW YORK (AP)—Can Colorado do to Nebraska on Saturday what it did to Oklahoma two weeks ago?
 The unpredictable Buffaloes, who seem to be involved in an upset in one way or another just about every week, entertain the third-ranked but once-beaten Cornhuskers this weekend with a chance to destroy once and for all their dream of an unprecedented third consecutive national college football championship.

Colorado has been a puzzle, struggling past lowly California in the opening game, losing to underdogs Oklahoma State and Missouri but defeating highly ranked Oklahoma and Iowa State.
 Nebraska, on the other hand, has outscored its last six opponents 315-14 after dropping its opener to UCLA. In addition, the Cornhuskers are second nationally in total offense, third in passing, first in scoring, tops in total defense—including four straight shutouts—eighth in rushing defense, sixth in pass defense and third in scoring defense. Colorado isn't among the leaders in any of those categories.

Nebraska's Bob Devaney doesn't lose many games and he's never lost in Boulder. The pick... Nebraska.

Oklahoma at Iowa State—This one matches the Big Eight's other two bowl teams of a year ago. Oklahoma's statistics are almost as impressive as Nebraska's—No. 1 in total offense and rushing, third in scoring, eighth in total defense, seventh in rushing defense and tied for first in scoring defense with Michigan. Next for Iowa State is Nebraska. For the present, it's... Oklahoma.

Southern California at Washington State—Top-ranked Trojans are looking ahead... to a week off, followed by UCLA and Notre Dame, Southern Cal.

Mississippi at Louisiana

State—Ole Miss has been in and out and might catch the Tigers looking ahead to Alabama... were it not for the Rebels' 24-22 triumph a year ago. LSU.

Stanford at UCLA—UCLA is the nation's No. 1 basketball school and Stanford's quarterback is Mike Boryla, whose old man used to put the round ball through the hoop with regularity. Mike is the NCAA's No. 4 passer. Upset Special of the Week... Stanford.

Southern Methodist at Texas—Mustangs gave Texas a battle royal (no relation to Darrell) before losing 22-18 a year ago but were caught looking ahead by Texas Tech last week. It'll be SMU's fourth rushing defense against the eighth-ranked ground game of... Texas.

Auburn at Florida—Tigers are the surprise team of the country, Auburn.

Tennessee at Georgia—Tennessee's defense has been super. Georgia's offense has been mostly nonexistent. Tennessee.

Air Force at Army—Ben Martin says the Falcons are "almost as good as some of our bowl teams." Army has no speed. Air Force.

Purdue at Michigan State—Believe it or not, Purdue is tied for the Big Ten lead with Michigan and Ohio State, but the Boilermakers are underdogs in this one. Okay, Michigan State.

Mississippi State at Alabama—Next week it's "Bama-TSU. This week it's just... Alabama.

Michigan at Indiana—Hoosiers' bubble has burst with two straight setbacks. Make it three, Michigan.

Missouri at Kansas State—Missouri has knocked off Notre Dame and Colorado and faces Oklahoma next week. Logical spot for the Second Upset Special of the Week... Kansas State.

Dartmouth at Yale—Bulldogs have won 'em all this year in the Bowl and lost their one road game. Enough of that, Dartmouth.

Nicklaus Is 1972's Top Golfer

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, who failed in his attempt to win the Grand Slam but did capture six championships in 1972, was named the Professional Golf Association's Player of the Year today.

The announcement of Nicklaus' selection by Warren Orlick, PGA president, was not surprising since the Columbus, Ohio native won both the Masters and the U.S. Open titles and nearly $300,000, a record.

Nicklaus began the year by announcing his intention of trying to win professional golf's big four tournaments—the Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and PGA. He won the first two but was defeated on the last hole of the British Open by defending champion Lee Trevino, the 1971 Player of the Year. Gary Player of South Africa won the PGA, in which Nicklaus tied for 13th.

"I am delighted and most appreciative to the PGA for selecting me," Nicklaus said when informed of the honor. "Looking back over the past year, I consider it the most satisfying I've had since turning professional in 1962."

"The reason for the satisfaction is not only did I win six championships, but equally important was the enthusiasm and the warmth displayed by the galleries everywhere I played in the United States and overseas."

Nicklaus also won the PGA award in 1967 when he won the U.S. Open and four other titles. He won his 12th and 13th major championships in 1972, tying the late Bobby Jones for most major championships. He is the only golfer to win each of the four major titles twice.

Open Taghkanic To Deer Hunters

LAKE TAGHGANIC
 Through the joint efforts of the Taconic State Park and Recreation Commission and Region 4 office of the Conservation Department, an agreement has been made to open Lake Taghkanic to deer hunting during the 1972 season.

Deer hunting will be by longbow only throughout the Lake Taghkanic State Park, except within certain areas posted against hunting. During the archery season (Nov. 4-Nov. 19), deer of either sex may be taken.

During the southern zone big game season (Nov. 20 through Dec. 5) only legally antlered deer may be taken within the park.

A quota of 150 archery hunters will be allowed in the park at any one time on a first come, first serve basis. Hunters will check in at the park office and pick up a daily permit which will have to be returned to the park office at the end of each day's hunt. Any deer taken must be presented at the park office for inspection on the day taken.

Hunters are advised to be sure to comply with all general provisions of the Conservation Law relating to hunting hours, manner of taking, tagging and transporting of deer. This hunt does not authorize a person to take more than one deer in a license year.

Guilty Plea Is Entered

KINGSTON
Two New York City men accused of leaving a Kingston hotel without paying for their room pleaded guilty to theft of services charges in City Court Tuesday. They were sentenced to 90 days in the Ulster County Jail and ordered to make restitution for the amount of their bill.

Edward Lowe, 18, and Alvin Lyles, 25, both of 197 East 2nd Street, New York City, were arrested on a warrant by Kingston police on Oct. 21 after they allegedly left the Governor Clinton Hotel without paying for their room.

City Judge Hubert A. Richter credited the two with time already served and made 30 days of their sentences subject to conditional discharge.

36 Attend Smoke Session

KINGSTON
The Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, held in the Community Room of the Savings & Loan Association of Kingston at 267 Wall Street, attracted 36 would-be non-smokers to its first session Monday night.

Some of the participants have been smoking for 44 years, and some smoking as much as three packs a day, but plan officials report they all want to stop.

Those attending the meeting were assigned buddies, as is done in Alcoholics Anonymous, instruction was given on the use of willpower, and traps were revealed that might lure the "refrainer" back into smoking. One feature of the Monday night program was a film showing, in color, an actual lung cancer operation. Another feature was the testimony of an ex-smoker who kicked the habit last year.

Chamber Music Program Slated

NEW PALT
The Department of Music at the State University College at New Paltz will present an evening of chamber music at 8:30 p.m. today in the Rebecca McKenna Theatre.

Featured selections on the program will include Handel's Sonata in D for Violin and Harpsichord, Beethoven's Sextet for French Horns and String Quartet, and Francis Poulenc's Sonata for Piano, Four Hands.

Guest artist, Glenda Bossen, cello, and Carole Premezi, violin, will join several members of the Music Department faculty for the occasion.

The general public is cordially invited to attend this free concert.

Goslin Debate Challenge . . . 'No Reply Received'

NAPANOCH dated Oct. 10', Fred Goslin, six years. Many complaints about lack of service, especially in the motor vehicle department, have been brought to my attention. One of the latest is from a very kind woman from Red Hook who received nothing but delays and discourtesies for her efforts, so she said she been running down-hill for about County Office in Hudson next time for youth as scoutmaster, rescue scuba diving. Burns Proposes Program To Curb Pollution Damage

CARMEL public agency projects available to clean up 95 per cent of industrial water pollution and 85 per cent of our industrial air pollution, frequently at a profit. There is no reason why industry should not be compelled to utilize this technology now.

The most dramatic of Burns' proposals is tough legislation to prohibit the discharge of air and water pollutants from industrial plants unless the polluter establishes that it has taken all practical steps to eliminate the discharge.

As executive assistant U.S. attorney before being removed from office while prosecuting General Motors for polluting the Hudson, Burns found that "feasible technology is now

Other novel proposals of Burns' six point program include:

- National standards for manufacture of synthetics and plastics to permit the recycling of these materials, accompanied by greatly improved systems to transport all recyclable waste from disposal sites to reclamation sites.
- The elimination of tax loopholes which make it more profitable to deplete natural resources such as paper, oil, and metals, then to recycle materials already in use.
- Crash programs to replace standard municipal biological sewage treatment concepts with more effective and profitable new technology involving highly sensitive filtration methods and systems to convert this waste into fertilizer or fuel oil.

CONGRATULATE GOSLIN — Daniel Mahoney (L) chairman of the New York State Conservative Party and Kieran O'Doherty (R) vice chairman, met with Fred Goslin (C) Conservative candidate for Ulster County Clerk recently and congratulated him on "his splendid service on behalf of the people of Ulster County in volunteer fire and rescue work and as a member of the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Hinchey Hits Lawmakers

SAUGERTIES research and resource persons for their constituents they must investigate and inform their electorate on the crucial policy issues of the day. This is just one area in which our present assemblyman has been notably lax", Hinchey said.

"Furthermore people have a right to basic political access to certain information concerning those they elect to public office. Legislators should be required to disclose their finances, including all financial sources. They should be compellled to disclose their relationships with all lobbies and special interest groups. And they should make full disclosure of the voting records, positions and statements on all legislative matters," he said.

"The erosion of public confidence in government must be stopped. Opening all of the operations of government and elected officials to close public scrutiny will go a long way toward restoring peoples' faith in our elective system," Hinchey concluded.

"We do not need one who shoots from the hip, sounds off before he knows the facts, and thereby implies that the county legislature either is wrong or does not know what it is doing."

The charge was made Oct. 8, 1971 by Orange County Legislator John D. Bright, a Mount Hope Republican. It is only one of many which Republican area officials issued during the past year against incumbent Republican-Conservative Richard E. Schermerhorn," said his Democratic opponent, B. Sears Hunter, during a recent press conference.

Hunter said that his compilation of the statements revealed that Schermerhorn has been considered the most ineffective legislator the area ever had in Albany, and that's what members of his own party say."

Hunter said that Bright vowed a year ago to do his utmost to defeat Schermerhorn at the polls next year, because he has been a consistent roadblock in the attempt of the county to accomplish anything in Albany."

Hunter, a Newburgh lawyer and Blooming Grove resident, said that Orange County Republican party chairman William E. Doulin has been "disenchanted with Schermerhorn for quite some time."

"We in politics don't take Richard Schermerhorn very seriously . . . and because of his wild statements . . . I wouldn't be surprised if I read that he predicts the end of the world next week," said Doulin at a county press club meeting June 26, 1971, according to Hunter.

At a meeting in Monticello May 9, 1971 where area legislative leaders were asked to support a bill offering compensation to homeowners who would be affected by proposed developments at

Stewart Airport, former Newburgh Mayor, George McNally stated that "I doubt very much if Schermernhorn is subject to reason."

The Republican Mayor of Highland Falls, King James Weyant, charged Schermernhorn on Aug. 20, 1971 with releasing speeches he had never made. Weyant, said Hunter, could prove that a speech which Schermernhorn released as one he made to plebes at the U. S. Military Academy in early August, 1971, was never delivered."

An Evening News (Newburgh area newspaper) report Aug. 21, 1971 states that Schermernhorn was at the academy with several other invited officials but, according to Weyant, he was not scheduled to speak and he was not asked to speak."

Hunter stated that Weyant called Schermernhorn's release of an undelivered speech an "absolute fabrication . . . and to have a New York State Senator fabricate such a story and to release it is certainly a serious condition and I feel the man is not worthy of the support of the Republican party, because to tell the truth is a very, very important attribute of any person."

Commenting on the various charges by the area's Republican leaders, Hunter said "It is obvious that they reflect the sentiments of many conservative-oriented voters who initially were led to believe that Schermernhorn was for the little guy and would fight for the interests of local governments."

"Schermernhorn has become the laughing stock of the state legislature. Nobody takes him seriously, especially not the Republican leadership includings Gov. Rockefeller, which has rejected many of his so-called major proposals," Hunter said.

noted that nearly 90 per cent of the district's 387,000 population reside in four counties he had served in the past as an assemblyman. They are Otsego, Schoharie, Delaware and Sullivan. The southern portion of Herkimer and the entire northwestern portion of Ulster make up the balance of the district, he said.

"The State of Connecticut is smaller than the 48th District as is the combined land areas of both the States of Delaware and Rhode Island, not to mention some 10 countries in the United Nations," Mason said.

"Many times have I crossed and criss-crossed every square mile of every town, village and community of the new Senatorial District in the past 20 years as an assemblyman representing many of the same people," he said.

"The 48th District comprises the most beautiful natural vacationland in the East, if not the entire USA," he boasted, "and its rural, suburban and urban characteristics make it virtually free of problems confronting the state as a whole, such as crime, corruption, drugs and welfare chisellers.

"In point of fact," he continued, "The 48th district has the lowest welfare caseload in the entire state, less than five-sixths of one per cent of the total state population.

"The most unique of its physical characteristics is its far reaching border and it crosses five of the state's great rivers. It extends from the Delaware River at the Pennsylvania-New Jersey line northward beyond the Mohawk River, and from the Hudson River in the Kingston area west beyond the Susquehanna River to the Unadilla River. Additionally, the 48th District holds six of the great reservoirs supplying the bulk of New York City's water: Cannoville, Pepacton, Neversink, Rondout, Ashokan and Schoharie," Mason said.

"It is an area renowned for its historic heritage, scenic beauty, magnificent farmlands and the pride, self-reliance and hard work of its people.

"To my mind the district symbolizes much, if not all of the good things all men seek or will fight to preserve, and as their representative in Albany, I will continue to uphold their way of life," he concluded.

NEWBURGH Republican-Conservative State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn has received the endorsement of the Utility Workers of America AFL-CIO.

Schermerhorn is running for reelection in the new 40th State Senatorial District which includes the City of Kingston and southern Ulster County as well as all of Orange County and part of Rockland County.

Schermerhorn said he is honored and pleased to have received the endorsement of the Utility Workers.

"I am proud," he said, "of my voting record for labor and I will continue to consider them as high priority in future legislation."

Meanwhile the senator has been assured, he said, by Environmental Conservation Commissioner Henry L. Diamond that bond ac funds such as those in the 1.15 billion Environmental Quality Bond Act, cannot be used to develop a jetport at Stewart Airport.

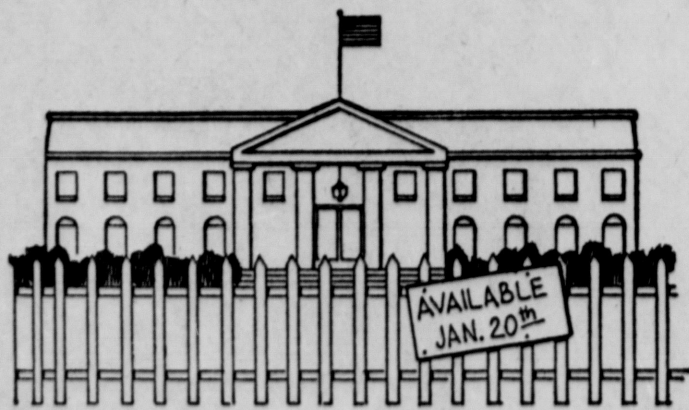

"The bond act, Proposition Number One on the November ballot, is for vital environmental improvement projects and nothing else," he explained.

"Using the money for anything but the environment would violate the legislative intent of the bill, and the provisions of the State Constitution," the commissioner said.

Diamond told Schermerhorn that Proposition One is the most straightforward piece of bond ac. legislation ever to face the voters of New York State, with projects and their estimated costs itemized wherever possible.

HURLEY inequities. To illustrate, let us assume two single family homes of equal market value. One of these homes may pay up to three times as much property tax as the other. This is because the assessors are not doing their job. The assessors tend to reassess properties only at the time they change hands, a house is built, or an addition is made to an existing structure. In addition, the assessors make little attempt to assure that houses of one architecture are assessed fairly relative to houses of other architectures," he explained.

"If elected, I promise to use the full authority of the office to correct this disgraceful and unfair situation," Callejo concluded.

Dow Charges Opponent With Campaign Distortions

NEWBURGH Benjamin Gilman has "based his entire campaign on a campaign swing through Congressional candidate Ben distortions," Rep. John G. Middletown.

Gilman Announces Program

MIDDLETOWN to relieve older taxpayers of "I will work also for the limited income of some of their improvement of federal, state local tax burden. I believe in and local programs of county extending this principle further selling, aid, and community citizens as part of what he with respect to federal taxation based services for all persons termed "my campaign to of Social Security income," he retired or about to retire from provide a better America through compassion, fairness and opportunity."

He said he would propose or support legislation to "relieve our older citizens of the financial, health and other concerns which still trouble so many of them."

Among his goals, he said would be the continuation of improvements in the Social Security system, including closely coordinated cost-of-living increases, periodic evaluation of the system's adequacy, and higher limitations on earnings for persons on Social Security.

He said Social Security income, "which provides only basic sustenance for many people," should be exempted from taxation and from any means test to determine eligibility for such things as local real estate tax exemption.

Gilman also called for protection of pensions in all sectors, improvements in Medicare and pre-Medicare health insurance, better incentives for private industry to build housing for citizens and homes for the aging, and better supervision of nursing homes.

In addition, he said, "one of the most important needs of older citizens today is for the opportunity to do something meaningful — both remunerative work and work that is non-paying and voluntary," Gilman explained.

"With the number of older citizens increasing at a faster rate than ever, I hope to give additional emphasis to developing such opportunities under the Older Americans Act and other legislation providing for better coordination of such programs to make life more fulfilling for all older citizens," he said.

Gilman noted that problems of older citizens had been his concern while serving in the Legislature and will continue to occupy a major share of his attention in the years ahead. "As a member of the Special Committee on Aging, I supported the legislation at Albany that allowed local governments

Rapkin Cites Position on Abortion

NEW CITY Yale Rapkin, Conservative-Independent candidate for Congress from the 26th Congressional District, stated today that "I have always made my position on abortion clear to the public, and I believe it is the duty of my opponents to do the same." Rapkin accused his opponents of trying to evade the abortion issue. He cited a recent press conference where the incumbent Democrat, John Dow, when asked of his position on abortion, responded by saying that he had "taken a stand on enough critical issues and did not want to jeopardize the election on one issue." The GOP contender, Benjamin Gilman, at the same press conference, when pressed for his position, conceded, in a rather confused statement, that he favored the present liberal State abortion law, Rapkin said. Rapkin contended that "there is legislation proposed to authorize on a nationwide basis, abortion on demand. Recent federal court decisions claim that a law which restricts the right of a woman to control her own body violates the U. S. Constitution." This, Rapkin stated, "would indicate that the U. S. Supreme Court might be called upon to make a constitutional determination regarding this grave issue. The abortion question is therefore a federal issue. It involves an invasion of states rights. It has become a critical issue and should be of great concern to all, especially those seeking Congressional office."

Letter Is Sent By Paltz Board

NEW PALTZ Sending a congratulatory letter to outgoing Town of New Paltz Supervisor Anthony J. Morfello was the main order of business at a very short meeting of the New Paltz Village Board, reports New Paltz Mayor Henry W. DuBois. Morfello resigned his position as of today, and is taking a position as the number two man in the state Department of Agriculture. He had been supervisor for five years, and had been a member of the town planning board before that. DuBois also said the board designated the New Paltz News the official village newspaper.

Dow quoted Gilman's hometown newspaper, which stated editorially that Gilman had traveled the "low road" during the campaign.

The newspaper specifically noted Dow's position on Israel and the environment as areas where Gilman had misled the public, Dow said.

"I've had enough years in public office to know that the voters have the wisdom and insight to see through misrepresentation and distortion," Dow said. "There is a place in campaigns for legitimate attacks upon the opposition based on fact. There is no place for fiction when a candidate seeks to win the public's trust."

"The harvest of Gilman's low campaign tactics will be votes for John Dow on Nov. 7," the Newburgh Congressman predicted.

Dow listed areas where he said Gilman had "intentionally misrepresented the record."

Israel — "Gilman says I voted against Israel when I voted against funding that barbaric war in Indochina. My vote was cast for peace. Even our mutual opponent, Yale Rapkin, says, Dow's position on Israel is one of unalterable support. I pledge to continue this support everyday I am in the House of Representatives."

Environment — Yes, I voted against a water pollution control bill, because it was too weak.

Amnesty — "This charge is a complete falsehood. I never said I was for amnesty. I said let's end the war. Amnesty is part of the far larger issues of the war and Gilman has never said one original word about this most tragic event in American history. As usual

Gilman is playing upon prejudice and emotion. Volunteer Army — "Again Gilman shows a preference for fiction. He says I voted against a volunteer army, when, in fact, there never was a vote in Congress on a volunteer army. I voted to end the draft," Dow said.

Narcotics Trade — "The truth is that I voted to stop drug traffic, as opposed to Gilman's typical misrepresentation of my record."

Flag Bill — "I voted to uphold our freedoms against those who wish to crush dissent and crucify dissenters."

Spending — "In his usual style, Gilman falsely charges that I vote for every spending bill in Congress. As usual he is wrong. I voted against the biggest spending bills of all, those for excess armaments that are taxing us into the ground and put the word 'overkill' in our vocabulary."

"I am convinced that the voters will soundly reject any candidate who persists in distorting his opponent's record," Dow said. "In Gilman's case, he has nothing creative or original of his own to show, so he turns to fantasy," Dow concluded.

GOP Aims To Control The House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wide-spread redistricting and the outcome of the presidential election pose question marks over next week's voting to fill 435 House seats.

Veteran strategists for the two major political parties are fairly close to agreement that the Republicans will not upset enough Democrats to win control of the House.

To take charge, the GOP, which now has 177 members, would have to unseat Democrats in 39 districts and retain two Republican seats now vacated.

Democrats hold 225 seats and have one vacancy.

Four years ago, when President Nixon was elected, Republicans had a net gain of five seats, hiking their total to 192.

The largest recent gain for the GOP was in the 1966 election, from a low of 140 to 187.

Not since 1952 have Republicans controlled the House.

Strategists of the two parties predict the outcome this way:

Republicans look for a net gain of about 26 seats; Democrats in 39 districts and retain two Republican seats now vacated.

There is substantial agreement on which contests may produce upsets.

Democrats go into the election with 36 candidates having no opponents and nine others with one major-party opponent. Republicans start with one opposed by a minor-party candidate.

Close to 1,000 persons are seeking the 392 contested seats.

Some of the imponderables include:

—The size of the vote and the winner of the presidency. There is agreement that polls showing Nixon with a substantial edge over Sen. George McGovern are accurate. But the experts say polls conducted by House candidates and private organizations reflect a closer division between the two parties. Only a landslide of unexpected size by Nixon would be likely to sweep the Republicans into control, the forecasters claim.

—Redistricting has reshaped the boundaries of districts in about 40 states. New voters have been added in some cases, and old ones shifted in others. There are 11 entirely new districts in California, three pending settlements of the war in Indochina cannot be measured.

Due to retirement, redistricting, primary-election defeats and the quest for other office, many incumbents will not be on the ballot in 57 districts on Nov. 7.

In three districts, pairs of incumbents are opponents.

—The voting habits of young people in a national election speaking engagements for a colleague. His Robert Price, Democrat, are running in the same district. Republicans claim Kyl has the edge.

A similar situation exists in Texas, where incumbents Graham Purcell, Democrat, and a plane trip to Alaska to campaign for a colleague. His Robert Price, Democrat, are running in the same district. Republicans claim Kyl has the edge.

In Wisconsin, incumbents David Obey, Democrat, and Alvin O'Konski, Republican, are victory predictions by both political parties in many areas. cause of redistricting.

gongs and bongs of a gamelan orchestra.

In the good old days, the bulls used to dance, too.

The most frantic activity is betting, with some farmers fresh from the fields putting up two months' earnings on their favorite animals.

The pairs of bulls run two at a time in a system of heats so the eventual winners are often covered in blood and bruises. They win a huge silver cup and a stick of sugar cane.

And then the bulls, and everyone else, go back to the crops.

A Look Inside the Walls

Lewisburg Penitentiary . . . Different Views

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Beamed and vaulted corridors, with heavy traffic in both directions, give the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg the feeling of a busy college or hospital.

But heavy doors and massive walls quickly remind all who are inside where they are.

Where they are: "Hell hole," says onetime union boss James Hoffa, where there are "stabbing, fights, riots."

A haven, says salad oil king Anthony de Angeles, where a man can find himself spiritually, physically and morally.

While the truth may rest somewhere in between, both men have followers who support their views and both have been outspoken about their years in Lewisburg.

Hoffa, former president of the Teamsters Union, spent four years and nine months behind bars after being convicted of tampering with a jury.

De Angeles served seven years after being convicted of charges stemming from a $100-million salad oil fraud.

"I have seen useless destruction of property, maiming of human beings, loss of self-respect and inhumane treatment," Hoffa told a Senate judiciary subcommittee.

Hoffa claimed that 45 per cent of the inmates at Lewisburg are homosexuals and that guards condone it.

"It is a terrible problem," he said. "It creates stabbings, fights, riots."

The tough-talking Hoffa said he learned a lot in 57 months behind bars.

"The kids I met in prison, the first offenders and the young offenders, they all tell you one thing: Once they're out, they're not coming back. And the public better wake up to this."

"They all tell you, if they get in trouble with the law again, and probably they will, no one is going to get them back in prison except if they get carried there. And the reason is that prison dehumanizes them so and demoralizes them."

De Angeles tells it differently. Coming here actually saved my life," he said. "I came here weighing 250 and I leave at 170. Spiritually, physically and morally this prison has saved my life. I have no sorrow for coming here."

Belgium Baker Claims American Bread Is Poor

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Dr. K. Van Den Bossche, head of Belgium's largest bakery, wouldn't have American bread on his table.

"It's terrible," said the bread baron, whose ovens produce six million loaves of 32 varieties daily. "American and British breadmakers sacrifice quality for economy and the result shouldn't be put on a dining room table. The best bread comes from France, Spain and — of course — Belgium."

Van Den Bossche claims poor bread is an Anglo-Saxon failing. The fault is that the Anglo-Saxons never have taken bread seriously enough. They even bake it in "unesthetic rectangles" instead of in-the-round, he pointed out.

In spite of "frivolous advertising campaigns," Americans and the British consume less bread than does the average Belgian, who puts away 200 grams (7 ounces) a day, he says. The figure for the United States is less than 100 grams, for England 125.

Only on one point will Van Den Bossche, 39, a doctor of law who inherited the bread business from his father, concede superiority to his foreign counterparts. They make money. He doesn't.

But that, he maintains, is not so much his fault as it is Belgium's. "Here we have a micro-market for all of Europe," he said. "Different areas like different kinds of bread and that makes mass production and other economy measures difficult. For example, in Antwerp they like large spongy bread. But try to pass that off in Brussels and you'd go broke. Here they want the harder stuff."

To make matters worse, 85 per cent of all Belgian housewives continue to buy from their neighborhood bakers on the theory that the local stuff is fresher and of higher quality than the factory produce.

"The biggest problem of the industrial baker," Van Den Bossche said, "is to create the image of the small old bake shop. Our entire marketing campaign is geared toward not letting people know how big we are."

Among other things, that entails packing the bread in plain paper bags instead of fancier cellophane wraps and marketing it under 16 different brand names. There is no indication on the label that the loaf was factory produced.

Another convict, a 25-year-old burglar from Buffalo, N.Y., agreed. "I waived my parole so I could stay in jail," he said.

He is learning to make dentures in the giant, gray-stoned penitentiary on the edge of this college town, home of Bucknell University.

"This is the only kind of rehabilitation that is worthwhile," he said. "This gives me a hell of a good chance of not going back. I'm putting my time to use. I'll have a job when I hit the street."

"A good job, in fact," remarked James Keyser, chief dental technician. His staff of four, assisted by at least 33 inmates, makes all denture plates, a d other necessary dental appliances for inmates in all the federal prisons in America.

Graduates of the two-year prison course receive 24 college credits and an associate arts degree.

But it benefits only a fraction, perhaps 2 per cent, of the total prison population of 1,760.

"Job training is out of line with reality," Hoffa said. "License plate and mop bucket manufacturing bear little relation to potential jobs in private industry."

"No prison is good," insisted a 47-year-old ex-soldier serving a life term for murder. "This one is overcrowded, and there is insufficient staff for any kind of meaningful program."

Lewisburg is considered medium security — for men with generally short terms, under 10 years, and who are considered less criminally sophisticated.

It is one of 28 federal penal institutions and the only one completely surrounded by a wall.

Prisoner protests across the country, riots and violence in some jails, and a growing public awareness has caused some wardens to take new looks at rules and regulations — and many have been softened.

This is what happened at Lewisburg:

Visitors — Inmates can see family and friends seven days a week, without time limit, from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. A year ago visits were restricted to five specific days, with a maximum of four hours a month.

Mail — Virtually unlimited in and out.

Telephone calls — Now permitted in emergencies and sometimes this is stretched to allow inmates to call home if there's been a long time between letters.

Spending — Inmates can now spend as much as $25 a month on such things as cigarettes, candy, soft drinks. The limit used to be $15.

Meals — Served cafeteria style. No check-in and inmates can skip a meal if they desire.

While most Lewisburg inmates wear the familiar military-type khaki or green cottons, some sport T-shirts, shorts, fancier slacks, sneakers or boot shoes. They have mustaches, beards, short and long hair.

They walk alone or in pairs, seldom in larger groups. They converse quietly, laugh a little, sometimes exchange signals.

Some carry papers, books or transistor radios.

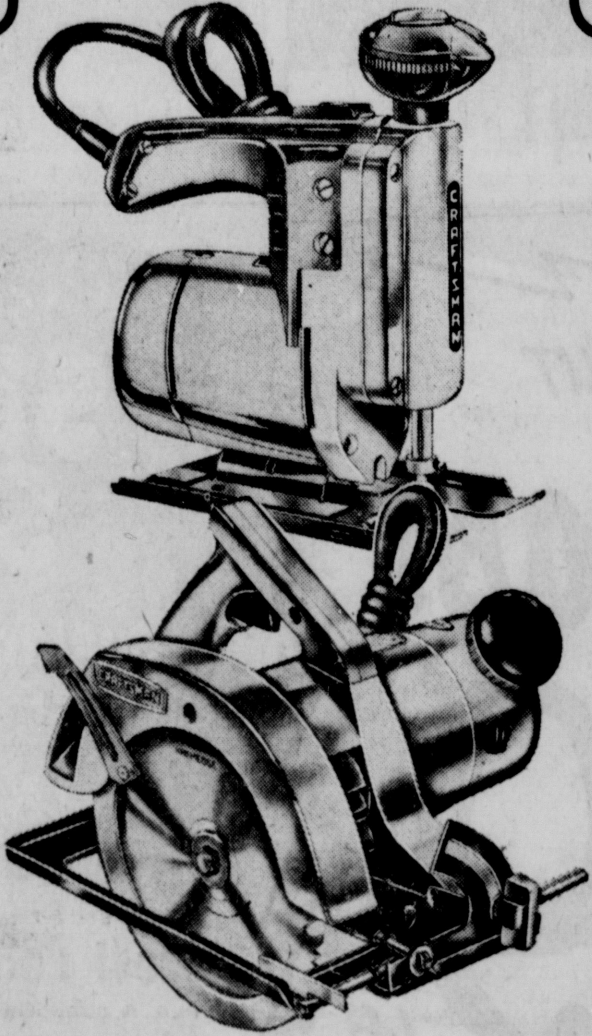

But eventually each comes to a door that has to be unlocked by a guard.

Like the man said: "No prison is good."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An odd day in which you can get much cooperation from others if you make a special point not to bring up subjects that could bring on arguments. Most everyone feels benign and cooperative even though worldly judgment is not at its best. Show affection. Strive for harmony.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Associates are vital to you at this time so be sure to carry through with any promises made to them. Do favors for close ties. Generosity is wise, even if only of the spirit.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Show that you are dependable and with no desires to go off on any tangents. Do whatever is necessary to make your surroundings more charming. Buy the accessories you need today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)

Steer clear of co-workers who are in an argumentative mood. Engage in the activities you enjoy and have a good time during spare hours. Make future plans and add to present happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Show that you are willing to go halfway with kin in order to increase the tranquility at home. Avoid a higher-up who wants you to do what does not suit you. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Improve daily routines so that they are easier and bring in more benefits. Talk over your plans with associates and arrive at a better understanding. Forget business tonight and be happy with mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Discuss with financial expert how to have more benefits in the future. Forget the ridiculous and frivolous for the time being and concentrate on the practical. Show that you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are charming and magnetic now and can easily sway others to your way of thinking. Accept an invitation to a party or give one yourself. This can help to gain your finest aims.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are able to do some research today that will bring you the right answers to a puzzling situation. Then forget the practical and have a fine romantic evening with the one you love.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A fine day for being with good friends you have not seen in a long time. More cooperation with others brings an important aim within reach. Help others via your cheerful attitude.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You need the assistance of an official today if you are to make advances in your career. Contact this person early. Try not to be too forceful concerning civic involvement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your new ideas are fine but you need to use a more modern system if you are to make them workable. Eliminate any anxiety. It's not your style. Do some positive thinking.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take advantage of your good hunches now so you can discharge your duties in a most efficient manner. Forget emotionalism and use good judgment when planning the future with mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who likes to cooperate with others and will have a positive flair for bringing greater happiness into the lives of others by being helpful to them. An ideal chart for the psychiatrist, the personnel worker and the government worker. A perfectionist is very much in this chart. Marriage here can be a most happy one.

WHY WE SAY

NOMINAL CHARGE

NAME: When there is said to be a nominal charge today you expect to pay a small charge, but this is not the true meaning of the phrase. Nominal means "in name only." Or, in other words, no real charge.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Henry George was an American economist who founded a single-tax movement and published "Progress and Poverty" in 1879. He professed that a single tax on land would cover government expenses and free industry from taxes. The World Almanac recalls. George's theories have influenced some tax legislation in Australia, Britain, Canada, and parts of the U.S. and Western Europe. Copyright © 1972 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Emmy Awards . . . Unique

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, which takes the tube very seriously, is doing something unique at Emmy Awards time next spring.

For the first time in its relatively young life, the academy is televising a separate awards show to honor what the judges deem national television's best news and documentary programs of 1972.

In the past, broadcast journalists picked up their Emmies either unnoticed or in a group that on television resembled the lineup at the 15th Precinct house after a burglary wave.

Now, with their own 90-minute show, they can take individual bows and won't have to stand in the shadow of assorted actors, singers, producers and other folk who deal only in entertainment fare.

The academy's Emmy Awards for entertainment are being distributed next May 20 from Hollywood in a one-hour special on ABC.

The newsmen will get their honors and show excerpts of their winning entries about a week or 10 days later in a program broadcast by CBS from New York.

"For a long time, the network news divisions have felt, quite properly, that they've been given short shrift on the Emmy show," said Thomas W. Sarnoff, a top NBC executive and academy chairman.

The work of the three networks, syndicated producers and the Public Broadcasting System will be considered for news Emmies.

They'll compete in five basic categories — hard news, magazine-type programs such as "60 Minutes," cultural documentaries, news documentaries and special events programs, such as coverage of last September's Munich tragedy during the Olympics.

The judges? They'll be what Sarnoff calls a "blue-ribbon panel" of at least 40 television critics and columnists from around the nation; they'll be flown to New York to see the shows and make their judgments.

Couple Returns After Taking 11-Month Cruise in Sloop

WATERLOO, Ont. (AP) — Don and Jean Salter are back from an 11-month, 10,000-mile cruise in their sloop. Don, 42, is a professor of earth science at the University of Waterloo. His wife says: "You can do anything in this world if you're willing to sacrifice." The couple bought their 31-foot sloop, the Tarnimara, in England. They sailed from Falmouth to Spain, then across the Atlantic to the West Indies, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and the Bahamas. They carried a short wave radio but no transmitter because they say people should be able to get themselves out of trouble without involving others. Both can navigate using a sextant. Their sloop, the Tarnimara, has a main cabin which houses the galley and a corner for navigation work and a forward cabin. They carried water in an 85-gallon earthenware jug hung in the rigging to keep cool. Mrs. Salter made bread every other day. They caught fish and carried dried meat, vegetables and fruit, bacon, eggs, butter and milk. "We coated 12 dozen fresh eggs with petroleum jelly when we left Falmouth," Dr. Salter said. "They kept fresh for three months without refrigeration." Thirty-six pounds of New Zealand canned butter kept well for seven or eight months. The Canary Islands supplied us with fresh oranges which were still fresh for six months. Mrs. Salter said her favorite food purchase was nine gallons of long-life milk bought in pint cartons in England. It kept fresh for six months.
